Youth Worker Degree Apprenticeship

How is it Delivered?

Youth Worker Degree Apprentices will have six hours of dedicated learning per week on average. This will include a weekly two hour lecture and a 90 minute seminar. The remaining time is used for independent study, with guidance from our tutors. The programme is delivered with one module following another. Students are expected to attend one lecture and participate in one seminar each week, as well as submitting assessments at the end of each module. The programme is delivered in term-time-only.
