

HUNTING IN THE CENTRAL-EASTERN EUROPE WITH ST. HUBERTUS HUNTING TOURS

OUR OFFERS IN CZECHIA

We have been organizing hunts in the Czech Republic for 14 years. Few countries can boast a hunting tradition as rich as that of this beautiful Central European nation. Many of today's hunting grounds were once used by Bohemian emperors in the Middle Ages and the Habsburg aristocracy until the early 20th century. Nowadays the Czech Republic is a highly attractive destination for hunters from all over the world, thanks to its wide variety of terrain (ranging from flat to mountainous areas), abundance of forests (in many hunting areas, woodland covers over 80 percent), and rich wildlife population. Below you will find some of our hunting offers in the best areas of the country that we have selected. The offers are listed by time of year, starting in mid-May when the new hunting season begins with roe buck hunting. We look forward to seeing you in Czechia.

OUR HUNTING OFFERS IN OTHER COUNTRIES IN CENTRAL AND EASTERN EUROPE, IN ADDITION TO THE CZECH REPUBLIC

Thanks to our office in Vienna, which complements our office in Prague, we have many years of experience in organizing hunting holidays in countries such as Austria, Slovakia, Slovenia, Poland, Croatia and Romania, as well as other destinations in Central and Eastern Europe. We have partnerships with the finest hunting estates in these countries. If you are interested in planning a multi-country hunting trip, we can take care of all the organization, including transfers, hotel accommodation, sightseeing programmes, trophy preparation and delivery to your address. These countries offer the opportunity to hunt different species of animal to those found in the Czech Republic, or animals that yield trophies not found in the Czech Republic. The following pages provide a comprehensive list of the species that can be hunted in each country. Prices are available on request. We guarantee to offer you the best possible value for money.

HUNTING IN THE ALPS IN AUSTRIA AND SLOVENIA

Set in the stunning scenery of the Austrian and Slovenian Alps, a hunt for Alpine chamois and ibex in autumn or winter is sure to be an unforgettable experience. Hunts can be organised in high-altitude areas above 2,000 metres or lower-lying areas, the latter of which are suitable for those who do not wish to undertake a physically very demanding hunt. Spring hunts for black grouse or capercaillie are equally exciting, as are hunts for species also found in the Czech Republic, such as roe deer, red deer and mouflon.

HUNTING IN SLOVAKIA

Having been part of Czechoslovakia alongside what is now the Czech Republic until 1993, Slovakia offers a similar range of hunting opportunities in terms of game species and hunting seasons. These include red deer, fallow deer, mouflon, roe deer and wild boar. Nevertheless, this small country boasts some real natural gems and impressive mountain ranges. Hunting takes place in both in free range and large fenced areas. Bow hunting is permitted in the latter.

HUNTING IN CROATIA

Croatia offers a wide variety of hunting opportunities across diverse kinds of terrains. You can hunt red stags with impressive antlers in floodplains, brown bears in wooded mountain ranges and Balkan chamois and mouflon ram in coastal areas. In addition to the hunting grounds on beautiful islands, where you can hunt wild goats, Dalmatian sheep, and Kri-Kri ibex, the offering is completed by an excellent population of roe deer and wild boar throughout the country.

HUNTING IN ROMANIA

Thanks to its vast unspoilt forests, Romania offers a wide range of hunting experiences. The country is home to the largest populations of brown bears and wolves in Europe. The Carpathian chamois, the world's largest subspecies of chamois, is native to the Carpathian Mountains in Romania. The country holds the CIC world record for chamois, as well as eight of the top ten trophies. The red deer in the Carpathian Mountains are larger than those in Western Europe and Romania has some of the largest red stag trophies in Europe. The fallow deer and roe deer population is excellent with large trophies. The country is also a paradise for waterfowl hunters. The Danube Delta region, near the Black Sea, is home to large numbers of geese, woodcocks, ducks, quails, and many other species of wild bird.

HUNTING IN POLAND

Poland has the largest forest area of any country in Eastern Europe. It is the largest country in the region and over 30 per cent of its territory is covered by forests. The country boasts a wide variety of landscapes, ranging from the northern coastline overlooking the Baltic Sea to the Carpathian mountain range in the south, which has peaks exceeding 2,000 metres in height. Primeval forests, expanses of lakes and beautiful lowland, hilly and mountainous areas are home to roe deer, red deer, fallow deer, European mouflon, European bison and wild boar. Additionally, certain parts of the country are home to large numbers of various subspecies of ducks and geese, as well as other wild birds. Poland is the only country in Europe to boast an abundant population of European bison in free range. Hunting red stag in breathtaking natural settings is a major attraction. The added benefit is that prices of red stag trophies are more affordable than in other countries. Wild boar and deer driven hunts are very well organised and popular among hunters from all over the world.
