

INSPIRE KAUA'I Launches Free Community Art Workshop Series Across the Island

Kaua'i, Hawai'i — Inspire to Create Media proudly announces the launch of Inspire Kaua'i, a free, island-wide art workshop program connecting local artists with the community through hands-on creativity and cultural sharing.

Kicking off in [Insert Month], Inspire Kaua'i invites keiki, families, and kupuna to participate in a variety of art-based workshops led by Kaua'i's most talented artists and cultural practitioners. From painting and poetry to lei-making and beat production, the program offers accessible, high-quality creative opportunities open to all ages and skill levels.

"Inspire Kaua'i is about building bridges between artists and the community," says Trysen Kaneshige, Program Coordinator at Inspire to Create Media. "It's a celebration of local talent, culture, and connection through creativity."

Workshops will rotate through different locations across the island, including community centers, schools, and public gathering spaces. Each session is designed to be inclusive, inspiring, and rooted in the values of aloha, creativity, and intergenerational exchange.

Program Features:

- Free weekly workshops led by local artists
- A wide range of topics: mural painting, digital design, traditional crafts, music & more
- Artist honorariums and full material support
- Special guest artist appearances and pop-up showcases

The program aims to highlight the diverse talent on Kaua'i while offering much-needed spaces for healing, expression, and joy — particularly for youth and families. In addition to building creative confidence, Inspire Kauai fosters mental wellness, cultural pride, and community collaboration.
