What is an access report?

- An evaluation of commute options available to a current employee or candidate;
- Analysis of how well connected key recruitment locations are to place of work; including alignment to shift times;
- This includes the cost, convenience and carbon emissions of an employee/candidate's commute and assess whether access to site is or isn't a limiting factor to your recruitment programme.

Why does it matter?

- Restricted transport options lead to a significantly tighter recruitment pool
- This has a knock-on effect to key performance metrics: early leavers, overall staff retention, employee wellbeing, productivity and overall candidate quality.
- Cost of living for employees is significantly impacted by travel to work affecting wellbeing.

Recommendation

Census data highlights that there is a high percentage of workers in routine occupations living in Nottingham,, Derby and long Eaton.

To ensure you can attract workers in these areas, we recommend introducing private services which provides easier access to site from each of these locations.

See suggested routes for each site on the following slides. We have also included an overview of the public and private transport times and associated costs.

Analysis & recommendations

Analysis

Public transport connections from Derby and Nottingham are long with restrictive public service routes and connections to site. Where public transport is available, it is both longer and more expensive than travelling by car. This means that DHL is at risk of not being able to attract and/or retain suitable employees as the only viable option for accessing the site is via car.

On average, an employee considering travel to work to either site via car would be paying £1400– 2000

Recommendation

As there is a lot of competition for similar skills in the area, we recommend both improving access to site for workers living in Derby as well as increasing access for people living in Nottingham where there is a high proportion of workers in routine occupations.

By introducing a private transport service, employees would save between £300–1000 a year (compared with driving to work) and save a significant amount of travel time (compared with travelling via public transport).

Therefore, our recommendation is to look at the effectiveness of private Zeelo routes from Derby, Nottingham and Long Eaton This will support if the business has a need to improve candidate quality and reduce dropout rates.

With currently 55 job vacancies listed for this site, providing a transport solution is also a beneficial recruitment tool for DHL from these areas.

Next Steps

If private transport can help your site, the next steps are:

- Book a free consultation with your Zeelo representative
- Zeelo will map employee/candidate postcode
- Flexible routing to maximise recruitment pool
- Assessment of expected ROI from launching a private route
