

Listening exercise

Write a 750-word response to this episode, which explores diasporic politics and communities in Canada. Listen carefully to the episode, take notes, and then reflect on the following questions: what surprised you most about the conversation? What comments or statements stuck out to you, and why? What resonated with you, and what left you with more questions? Are there any other topics or themes that you would have liked the panellists to discuss? What question would you have asked, and why?