Real support, real stories: How we make a difference

At Rooftop, our colleagues work closely with customers to make sure they feel safe and supported in their homes. From everyday enquiries to complex tenancy and welfare issues, Neighbourhood Housing Officers (NHOs) are the first point of contact for many. They listen and offer advice and support about your tenancy and community. Here's what some of our customers have said.

Helping an older customer downsize with dignity

An 81-year-old resident spoke to her NHO during a routine tenancy visit. Though she loved her home full of family memories, her arthritis made managing the large garden and three-bedroom house difficult. The NHO discussed the possibility of a management move and supported her through the application process. A smaller, more manageable home closer to her support network meant a new chapter with more independence and peace of mind.

Intensive support in a complex housing case

In Evesham, an NHO has been supporting a customer and her daughter living in a heavily hoarded two-bedroom home. Rooftop had previously obtained an injunction to carry out the legally required five-year electrical safety check as the customer would not allow access.

The NHO completed a safeguarding referral, resulting in social services arranging three daily carer visits and a care plan to support the customer, who attends dialysis three times a week. A successful management move application led to her being offered a new home in one of our housing with care schemes, which she accepted. The NHO visited frequently, helped complete paperwork, and even assisted in physically clearing the property. The customer moved into her new home in April.

At the same time, the NHO worked closely with Wychavon's housing team to support the customer's daughter, submitting paperwork for a homelessness application and sourcing her a garage to store belongings temporarily.

A compassionate response after a stroke

Another customer was struggling to cope in her home after suffering a stroke. With limited help from family and carers visiting just twice a day, she was isolated and anxious.

Her NHO supported her to apply for a move to a bungalow close to her GP and family. They guided her through the housing application and contacted the local authority to support her move. Aware the customer needed extra help, the officer reached out to Adult Social Care, Age UK's social prescribers and Citizens Advice. They also explained how to self-refer to the Enablement Services, which provides in-home and community support, and advised how to access an occupational therapy referral to help improve her day-to-day life while she waited for a move.

These real-life stories show Rooftop's commitment to being here for our customers. Rooftop colleagues live out our values every day: they work together with customers and partners, go the extra mile to make things better and always strive to do the right thing.

Whether helping someone move, tackling complex needs or simply being there to listen, we are at the heart of building stronger and supportive communities.

Shaping your future repairs service

We've learnt from feedback that your needs for property maintenance and estate services have changed in the 12 years since our current contractor, Platform Property Care (PPC), began delivering the majority of our repairs and maintenance in 2013.

That's why we've begun the search for a new contractor to deliver these services from July 2026.

For now, there's no change to how you report repairs. PPC will work closely with Rooftop over the next 12 months to support a smooth and well-managed transition.

If you've already reported a repair, it will still be carried out as planned. The existing ways for reporting a repair will stay the same, and so will the Rooftop staff and PPC (and other contractors) trades teams who deal with repairs.

We'll work with customers and colleagues to shape what we want the future service to offer in the months ahead, and involve customers in the ongoing process and any decision on the future provider. If you're a leaseholder, a formal consultation (called Section 20) will be held before any changes are made to service charges.

We want the new service to be shaped by you, so if you have any concerns or would like to get involved, please contact us at customer.engagement@rooftopgroup.org or call 01386 420800.

Thank you for being part of this. We look forward to working with you.

Community Highlight

A special event at our Broadway Lane development in Fladbury in July showed how rural housing can directly benefit communities.

Representatives from Homes England, Wychavon District Council, the local Parish Council, the developer Owl Partnership Ltd., Rooftop's board members and colleagues, as well as a local resident Emily Mobley who had spoken in support of the scheme joined the event, demonstrating the importance of community voices in shaping rural development.
