Where estimating workflows fall short today

- 01 Manual and semi-automated takeoffs can consume 10 to 40+ hours per project
- 02 Limited capacity and tight deadlines leave valuable opportunities unbid
- 03 Estimators spend less time on pricing, value engineering, and risk review
- 04 Large plan sets and frequent addenda increase the risk of errors and rework
- 05 Without BIM coordination, design conflicts often go unnoticed until they cause delays and rework on site
