Unit 1: Changing Awareness of Crime

The purpose of this unit is to learn about different types of crimes and how they are viewed by the police and society. Many people learn about the fear and fascination of crime from various media sources, but the media isn't always reliable. Some types of crime lack public awareness, leading to individuals, groups and even the media campaigning to make a change. Looking at these you will plan a campaign for change relating to specific crime.

Task 1

In Unit 1 AC1.1 you will analyse different types of crime. For each of these you need a case study example. Research and complete the following sections to build up a bank of case studies.

This information will be used in learning outcome 2 of your Unit 1 assessment. If you are not able to print this booklet, you can complete the task on lined paper. Presentation is important so please make sure your work is neat and detailed.
