Hélène Hüppin

Many stakeholders, different interests and one shared goal: good healthcare for everyone. This is exactly the field of tension in which Hélène feels at home. During her master's degree in health sciences, she studied the structures and interconnections of the healthcare system in depth and realised how much potential this complex system holds. She now wants to unlock this potential in consulting.

For her, good solutions emerge where different perspectives meet. That is why she listens carefully, asks the right questions and rethinks the status quo. She tackles demanding tasks with an analytical eye, openness and a love of new ideas. What drives her is change that genuinely takes hold in everyday practice and makes a lasting difference for patients and staff alike.
