

Relevant Case Study

AXA Investment Managers leverages PROBIS across multiple regions to optimize financial governance in complex real estate developments. The platform integrates end-to-end budget control, automated invoice verification, structured batch approvals, centralized fund tracking, and AI-generated reporting within a unified data environment.

One example project is 50 Fenchurch, a 36-storey, 650,000 sq ft, net-zero, all-electric office tower in the City of London. PROBIS functions as the central financial control layer, enabling real-time risk detection, commitment tracking, and portfolio-level transparency across the capital stack.

By replacing fragmented Excel-based workflows, often involving 200 to 1,200 files and up to 100 stakeholders AXA IM reduces administrative overheads, accelerates approval cycles, strengthens audit-proof compliance, and proactively mitigates budget overruns.
