Cookie Policy

To make this site work properly, we sometimes place small data files called cookies on your device.

What are cookies?

A cookie is a small text file that a website saves on your computer or mobile device when you visit the site. It enables the website to remember your actions and preferences (such as login, language, font size, and other display settings) over a period of time, so you don't have to re-enter them whenever you return to the site or move between pages.

How do we use cookies?

Resolve.ai uses cookies for a variety of purposes, including to:

- Analyze usage of our products and services
- Provide a more personalized experience
- Simplify login and usage of our products and services
- Enhance your experience by recognizing returning users and customizing interactions

Types of Cookies We Use

Cookie Name	Purpose
_ga	Registers a unique ID used to generate statistical data on how the visitor uses the website.
_gat	Used by Google Analytics to throttle request rate.
_gid	Registers a unique ID used to generate statistical data on how the visitor uses the website.
collect	Sends data to Google Analytics about the visitor's device and behavior. Tracks users across devices and marketing channels.
Product cookies (e.g., same as website name)	Includes SSO-related and local storage-related cookies for efficient product usage.

How to Control Cookies

You can control and/or delete cookies as you wish:

- You can delete all cookies already stored on your computer.
- You can set most browsers to prevent cookies from being placed.

However, doing so may require you to manually adjust some preferences every time you visit the site, and some services or functionalities may not work properly.

You may also choose to:

- Set your browser to warn you about cookie placement.
- Limit the types of cookies you allow.
- Refuse cookies altogether (with possible impact on site functionality).

Policy Review

- Next review cycle: March 2026
- Management reserves the right to review and modify this policy at any time as needed.
