

EASTER

April 5, 2026

Welcome! Thanks for joining us today.

Welcome

"He is not here; he has risen!" announced the angel at the empty tomb to the bewildered women early on that first resurrection morning (Luke 24:6). Their fear and grief melted into inexpressible joy—a joy so enduring that it reverberates through the centuries all the way to us today. We're glad you have joined us to remember and celebrate the incomparable joy of this news: "He is risen!"

New Sermon Series: Redeemed Relationships

Setting our hearts and minds on things above does not mean ignoring the people around us - quite the opposite. A renewed mind will pursue renewed relationships, starting with those closest to us. What do peace, love, and mutual submission look like in the husband-wife relationship, in the parent-child relationship, and in work relationships? That's what we'll be considering in our next sermon series called "Renewed Relationships," as we continue in our study of Colossians chapter 3.

Discover Track: Resurrection

Easter can be overwhelming. Left wanting more? Got questions? Head spinning? In a few short minutes, we engaged the whole history of resurrection. That's a lot! Maybe you would like to talk more about that. Join us over the next three Wednesday evenings (April 8th, 15th, & 22nd), as we discuss the meaning of resurrection—past, present, and future. We will meet at 7:00PM in the Fireside Room.
