

Datakafé is a technology services company helping organizations build modern data and AI products.

Founded in 2015, our company emerged from the realization that the traditional consulting model was broken. Too often, clients received fluff instead of real value. We aimed to change that by delivering actionable, impactful solutions without unnecessary complexity.

Additionally, we're technologists, hands-on and deeply embedded in the data and AI community, allowing us to develop first-hand point of views on the evolving technology landscape and deliver those insights into our customer solutions.
