

SMALL, SUBTLE SYMPTOMS CAN BE EARLY WARNING SIGNS OF INCONTINENCE

Most people think incontinence only means major leakage, but actually begins much earlier, with: Urgency, Frequency, Nighttime Waking, Stress Leakage, Incomplete Emptying, Post-Urination Drips, Sudden Urges, Weak Stream. These symptoms progress over time as pelvic floor weakens.

GOOD NEWS!

WEAK PELVIC MUSCLES CAN BE STRENGTHENED – EVEN THE DEEP INVOLUNTARY ONES.

THE SCIENCE: HOW GAZELLE™ HELPS RESTORE BLADDER CONTROL

YOUR PELVIC FLOOR HAS TWO MUSCLE GROUPS

1 VOLUNTARY MUSCLES

These are the muscles you can consciously squeeze — like during Kegels.

2 INVOLUNTARY MUSCLES

These deeper internal muscles work automatically. You cannot contract them on your own.

The superficial layer (VOLUNTARY) helps control leaks during coughing, laughing, and exercise.

The deep layer (INVOLUNTARY) forms a “support hammock” for your bladder and organs — controlling urgency, frequency, emptying, and pelvic stability.

AND HERE'S THE KEY...

Involuntary muscles weaken over time — and you cannot strengthen them voluntarily. This is why symptoms slowly increase, even if you're doing all the “right” exercises.

WHY KEGELS OFTEN DON'T FIX THE PROBLEM

Kegels work only on the voluntary muscles. But the symptoms that interrupt your life — Urgency, Frequency, Nighttime waking, Incomplete emptying, Dribbling, Pelvic heaviness — come from the involuntary muscles.

You cannot strengthen involuntary muscles with Kegels, no matter how hard you try.

This is why many people do Kegels for months with little or no improvement. Your symptoms are not your fault — they are muscular.

To regain control, you need a way to contract and strengthen the involuntary deep pelvic floor muscles.

And that's exactly what the Gazelle™ does.

The Gazelle™ uses gentle EXMI® pulsed magnetic stimulation to trigger deep pelvic floor contractions. Magnetic energy reaches 1” to 4” deep, activating all layers of pelvic muscle that Kegels cannot reach.
