Course contents

Personalized treatments for common skin conditions in dermatology

This course serves as a perfect introduction to the most common conditions in dermatology: acne vulgaris, rosacea, seborrheic dermatitis, and hyperpigmentation, covering aspects related to their classification, pathogenesis, differential diagnosis, and relevant treatments. Additionally, Dr. Hudson Polonini describes the role of dermocosmetics and Cleoderm in the personalization of dermatological treatments, including a review of the scientific literature.
