How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

During the fiscal year ended May 31, 2025, the Fund generated strong positive results and outperformed the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index. The Fund effectively managed an uptick in volatility driven by changing policy conditions and geopolitical tensions, producing profits across fixed income markets, including government, inflation-linked, corporate, and emerging market exposures, through a period of instability. The Fund's use of its current investment strategies did not cause performance to materially deviate from the manager's expectations given the uncertainty of the markets and the underlying factors driving them over the period.

How has the Fund performed over the last ten years?

Over the last ten years, the Fund has generated positive results and outperformed the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index. While volatility has increased in markets over the period, the Fund has targeted a similar level of volatility as the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index and generated a differentiated return for investors over the economic cycle.
