

VISITING THE LIBRARY

We're going to the library today! The library is a place filled with many fun and exciting books to read.

It also has other events and resources for the community, like:

Group storytime

Computers

Crafting events

Author meet & greets

When we arrive at the library, many people may already be reading. We need to use quiet voices and walking feet so we don't disrupt their focus.

I can read a book in the library, or if I would like to take one home, I can check out a book. Checking out a book means I get to borrow it for a few weeks, and then I will bring it back by the due date.

The librarian at the library will help me check out the book and tell me when to turn it in. Librarians have many different jobs at the library:

Checking out books

Organizing new and existing books

Providing research assistance

Planning events at the library

Visiting the library is great because there is always a new book to read and lots of places in the library to read them!
