VISITING SANTA

As Christmas Day approaches, we might plan a trip to see Santa Claus. Before we visit him, I'll need to write my letter to Santa.

I can always ask for help when I'm writing my letter. Then, I can give him the letter with the gifts I want for Christmas, and he can read it when he gets back to the North Pole.

We won't be the only ones visiting Santa, so when we arrive, we may have to wait our turn. Other children and families are just as excited to see Santa as I am. Waiting in line with a calm body and an inside voice helps everyone who sees Santa share their letters.

When it's our turn to see Santa, I need to be ready with my list and anything else I need to communicate with him. We only have a short amount of time with Santa before he needs to head back to the North Pole. When I meet Santa, I can say or sign hello and give him my letter.

He might ask what I want for Christmas, and I can share what gift I want. Then we will take a picture with Santa to keep the memory of our visit. I can look at the camera and smile if I feel comfortable.

After the picture, I can say or sign goodbye to Santa and allow the next family to meet him. Visiting Santa is so much fun even when it happens quickly because he has a lot of work to do before Christmas Day!
