This notification includes more information on what happened, how this impacts you, and the steps you can take to stay protected, including the support package provided for credit monitoring and identity theft protection services.

What Happened

On June 28, 2025, PeopleCheck, a third-party supplier conducting background checks and employee screening on our behalf, became aware of a security incident in which candidates' personal data stored and processed by PeopleCheck was accessed by threat actors using compromised login credentials. What Information Was Involved

PeopleCheck determined the exact data which was accessed by the attacker. After reviewing the impacted data, it has identified the following data elements related to you that were in the accessed files: Name, Email, Internal Reference Name, Date of Birth, Phone Number, Birth City, Social Security Number, Gender, Mother Name and Share Code.

PeopleCheck has stated that your financial information was not impacted and remains secure. They have also stated that no documentation uploaded to their systems was impacted, and therefore, any documents you uploaded remain secure.
