

Notice of Data Security Incident

Updated: August 4, 2025

Continental Bancorporation (“Continental”) is committed to protecting the privacy and security of the personal information we maintain. We are making individuals aware of a data security incident involving unauthorized access to the Continental network environment. As part of the investigation, we engaged third-party cybersecurity professionals experienced in handling these types of incidents. Although we have no evidence of financial fraud or identity theft related to this data, in accordance with applicable law, we will be making potentially affected individuals aware of the incident, resources that will be made available to them, and steps that they may take to protect their personal information, should they feel it appropriate to do so.

What Happened? Specifically, on April 10, 2025, Continental Bank was notified that an unauthorized party attempted to gain access to Continental Bank’s internal network via a recently published vulnerability associated with CrushFTP server software (hereinafter referred to as the “Incident”). This vulnerability has been patched, and Continental Bank has since secured the CrushFTP server. Additionally, Continental Bank immediately engaged external cybersecurity professionals experienced in responding to these sorts of incidents to assist in the incident response efforts and to investigate the root cause of the Incident and scope of data impacted, if any. Our investigation into this matter is ongoing, but at this time, we have determined that select personal data was impacted by this incident.

What Information Was Involved? Based on our investigation and internal review, Continental determined that certain personal information was impacted by this incident, including first and last name, Social Security numbers, financial account numbers and routing numbers, driver's license numbers or other state issued identification numbers, financial institution names and login information, and dates of birth. The type of impacted information varies by individual.

What We Are Doing. The security and privacy of the information we maintain is a top priority for us. In response to this incident, we took immediate steps to secure our email environment and engaged third-party forensic experts to assist in the investigation. We are working to identify those impacted.

How will Individuals Know if They are Affected by this Incident? Continental will be providing notice to individuals whose information was determined to be contained in the impacted data, in accordance with our legal obligations and to the extent we have valid email addresses on file for the individuals. We will also be providing credit monitoring to individuals whose Social Security numbers are determined to have been impacted by this incident. If an individual does not receive a letter but would like to know if they are potentially affected, they may call the dedicated call center we have established to respond to questions about this incident at 1-866-561-6086.

For More Information. For more information about this incident, please contact the dedicated call center we have established to respond to questions about this incident at 1-866-561-6086, available Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Central Time, excluding holidays.

What You Can Do. We encourage individuals to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing your account statements and monitoring your free credit reports for suspicious activity and to detect errors. Under U.S. law individuals are entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Individuals may also contact the three major credit bureaus directly to request a free copy of their credit report, place a fraud alert, or a security freeze. Contact information for the credit bureaus is provided below. Furthermore, you can consider contacting your financial institution to request additional fraud protection and alerts on your accounts, should you feel it necessary to do so.

Placing a Fraud Alert on Your Credit File.

You may place an initial one-year “Fraud Alert” on your credit files, at no charge. A fraud alert tells creditors to contact you personally before they open any new accounts. To place a fraud alert, call any one of the three major credit bureaus at the numbers listed below. As soon as one credit bureau confirms your fraud alert, they will notify the others.

Consider Placing a Security Freeze on Your Credit File.

If you are very concerned about becoming a victim of fraud or identity theft, you may request a “Security Freeze” be placed on your credit file, at no charge. A security freeze prohibits, with certain specific exceptions, the consumer reporting agencies from releasing your credit report or any information from it without your express authorization. You may place a security freeze on your credit report by contacting all three nationwide credit reporting companies at the numbers below and following the stated directions or by sending a request in writing, by mail, to all three credit reporting companies:

Equifax Security Freeze

P.O. Box 105788
Atlanta, GA 30348-5788
<https://www.equifax.com/personal/credit-report-services/credit-freeze/>
(888) 298-0045

Experian Security Freeze

TransUnion Security Freeze

P.O. Box 160
Woodlyn, PA 19094
<https://www.transunion.com/credit-freeze>
(888) 909-8872

In order to place the security freeze, you’ll need to supply your name, address, date of birth, Social Security number and other personal information. After receiving your freeze request, each credit reporting company will send you a confirmation letter containing a unique PIN (personal identification number) or password. Keep the PIN or password in a safe place. You will need it if you choose to lift the freeze.

If your personal information has been used to file a false tax return, to open an account or to attempt to open an account in your name or to commit fraud or other crimes against you, you may file a police report in the City in which you currently reside.

If you do place a security freeze prior to enrolling in any credit monitoring service, you will need to remove the freeze in order to sign up for the credit monitoring service. After you sign up for the credit monitoring service, you may refreeze your credit file.

Additional Information

You may further educate yourself regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps you can take to protect your personal information by contacting the consumer reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade

Commission, or your state Attorney General. The Federal Trade Commission may be reached at: 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261. The Federal Trade Commission also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them. You can obtain further information on how to file such a complaint by way of the contact information listed above. You have the right to file a police report if you ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, you will likely need to provide some proof that you have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement and your state Attorney General. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.

As noted above, you may obtain a security freeze on your credit report to protect your privacy and ensure that credit is not granted in your name without your knowledge. You have a right to place a "security freeze" on your credit report pursuant to chapter 48 of title 6 of the Identity Theft Prevention Act of 2006.

The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. When you place a security freeze on your credit report, within five (5) business days you will be provided a personal identification number or password to use if you choose to remove the freeze on your credit report or to temporarily authorize the release of your credit report for a specific period of time after the freeze is in place. To provide that authorization, you must contact the consumer reporting agency and provide all of the following:

1. The unique personal identification number or password provided by the consumer reporting agency.
2. Proper identification to verify your identity.
3. The proper information regarding the period of time for which the report shall be available to users of the credit report.

A consumer reporting agency that receives a request in writing from a consumer to temporarily lift a freeze on a credit report must comply with the request no later than three (3) business days after receiving the request. If the request is made online or by phone, the consumer reporting agency must comply with the request within one (1) hour.

A security freeze does not apply to circumstances where you have an existing account relationship and a copy of your report is requested by your existing creditor or its agents or affiliates for certain types of an account review, collection, fraud control, or similar activities.

If you are actively seeking a new credit, loan, utility, telephone, or insurance account, you should understand that the procedures involved in lifting a security freeze may slow your own applications for credit. You should plan ahead and lift a freeze -- either completely, if you are shopping around, or specifically for a certain creditor -- with enough advance notice before you apply for new credit for the lifting to take effect.

You have a right to bring a civil action against someone who violates your rights under the credit reporting laws. The action can be brought against a consumer reporting agency or a user of your credit report.

To place a security freeze on your credit report, you must send a request to each of the three major consumer reporting agencies: Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. These agencies can be contacted using the contact information provided above.

In order to request a security freeze, you may need to provide the following information:

1. Your full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Complete address;
5. Prior addresses;
6. Proof(s) of identification (state driver's license or ID card, military identification, birth certificate, etc.); and
7. If you are a victim of identity theft, a copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft.

Approximately 1 Rhode Island residents were impacted by this incident.
