

The Institute of Culinary Education Provides Notice of Data Event

The Institute of Culinary Education (the “Institute”) is providing notice of an event that may affect information relating to certain current and former students and other individuals. This notice provides information about this event, our response, and resources available to you to help protect your information, should you feel it is appropriate.

What Happened? The Institute became aware of suspicious activity and promptly began an investigation into the nature and scope of the activity. Our investigation determined that an unauthorized actor gained access to certain Institute systems and copied files on or around May 5, 2025. We undertook a review of the relevant files in order to determine what data was present and to whom it related. We are now providing notice to those individuals whose information may have been present in the relevant files.

What Information Was Involved? The types of information that may have been impacted vary by individual and may include: name, Social Security number, date of birth, driver’s license number, and U.S. alien registration number.

What We Are Doing. We take the security of information in our care very seriously. Upon becoming aware of the issue, we promptly launched an investigation into the nature and scope of the event and took measures to ensure the security of our environment. Additionally, we have also implemented additional cybersecurity measures.

What Individuals Can Do. As a precautionary measure, we encourage individuals to remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing account statements and credit reports for suspicious activity and to detect errors. Additional information on protecting personal information from misuse may be found below in the Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information.

For More Information. If individuals have questions or need assistance, they may call our dedicated assistance line at 855-291-2584 between the hours of Monday-Friday 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., EST. You may also write to us at 225 Liberty Street, New York, NY 10281.

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:

Additional Information

Consumers may further educate themselves regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps they can take to protect your personal information by contacting the consumer reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission, or their state Attorney General. The Federal Trade Commission may be reached at: 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261. The Federal Trade Commission also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them. Consumers can obtain further information on how to file such a complaint by way of the contact information listed above. Consumers have the right to file a police report if they ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, consumers will likely need to provide some proof that they have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement and the relevant state Attorney General. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.
