Short Description of Organization

Rivian's mission is to keep the world adventurous forever. An American company with a global mindset, we're focused on building electric vehicles that inspire exploration of this planet we all call home. To build the future our kids' kids' kids deserve, extraordinary steps must be taken. Everything we do is in service of rallying people and industries, inspiring innovation and building a business that's not only better than what came before but is driving real change.

Short Bio

Abigail joined Rivian in 2025 as Senior Public Policy Manager for the Western United States. In this role, she develops strategies and relationships to support Rivian's mission and business goals and facilitate adoption of electric vehicles and related infrastructure.

Previously, she served as a Project Director on the Climate team with the Nature Conservancy's California chapter. There, she engaged regulators, elected officials, community leaders, and partner organizations to transform state land use and infrastructure, helping people and landscapes adapt to climate-related challenges. She began her career as an attorney in private practice, representing project proponents in environmental and land use regulatory and permitting processes.

Abigail graduated from the University of California College of the Law, San Francisco, and Williams College. She is an avid outdoorswoman and traveler who seeks excellent fish tacos.

Hot Issues

Opening "closed" states (where franchise dealer laws prevent Rivian from selling directly to consumers), designing EV incentive programs, building systems to support EV charging infrastructure (which we also make), autonomous vehicles, privacy, manufacturing incentives.

States where you are looking for representation or have Issues	Montana, Oregon, Nevada (we have consultants already in WA, CA, and HI)
