

Thanks to our dedicated team, CloudLab has become a leading global company for innovative web technologies in the print, packaging, and marketing industries. If you are interested in actively supporting us in Dortmund, you might be our new

Project Manager (m/f/d)

Your new job

- Consulting & Operations: You will be the first point of contact for our customers, managing the project from technical specification to go-live. You monitor project success and stay in constant contact with the customer.
- Planning & Coordination: As the interface between our international clients and our software development team, you will create the technical specs. In addition, you will create the corresponding tasks and coordinate any change requests to the software.

Your qualifications

- Technical, commercial, or media technical vocational training / studies
- Fluent in written and spoken German and English for business purposes
- Good skills in common project processes and tools (e.g. Jira, Trello, Asana)
- Basic understanding of relevant web technologies such as HTML, CSS, and JavaScript
- A technical understanding and the ability to quickly adapt to new software

Our benefits

- Tech company with an international focus and a diverse, collaborative team
- A fair salary, 30 days vacation, a company pension plan, and ample opportunity to get involved
- Cutting-edge technical setup, including either a PC or Mac, and a company smartphone for personal use
- Centrally located office in the city of Dortmund, easy to get to and get around
- Foosball, pinball, drinks, sweets & treats, and a few exciting team events throughout the year

Sounds good to you?

Please feel free to contact Laszlo with any questions at +49 231 6000 1715 or submit your application directly to jobs@cloudlab-solutions.com. Please provide us with your possible starting date and your salary expectations.

You can find more information about us and our projects on our website www.cloudlab-solutions.com.