

Varðveitsla av vistskipanini

Tá ið man spreingir, so er talan um 'skaðá' á lendið. Vit vildu sjálvandi ikki gera meira skaðá, enn gott er, so tá ið vit fóru í samráðingar við P/F J&K Petersen um hesa verkætlan, var okkara krav, at so nógv av byggitilfarinum sum gjørligt skuldi vera upprunatilfar, tvs. koma frá hesum sama stað. Einkí fremmant skuldi innflytast. Vegirnir eru so skynsamt sum møguligt lagdir inn í lendið, og tað tilfarið, man hevur sprongt, hevur man eisini brúkt til at gera vegin við.

Preservation of the habitat

When drilling and blasting, there is 'damage' to the land. We certainly did not want to cause more harm than necessary, so when we consulted with P/F J&K Petersen about this project, we required that as much of the building material as possible should be of local origin, that is, from this area. Nothing should be imported. The road was laid out as sensibly as possible in the terrain, and the blasted material was also used to construct the road itself.
