Commitment to Sustainable Development Goals

At Fakeeh College for Medical Sciences (FCMS), our commitment to the Sustainable Development Goals is deeply embedded in our educational philosophy, community mission, and healthcare vision. Guided by the goals of Good Health and Well-being, we continuously work to enhance the health literacy, clinical competencies, and wellness of our students, staff, and the wider community through evidence-based education and impactful outreach programs. FCMS actively advances Quality Education by delivering modern, practice-oriented curricula across its diverse health disciplines, empowering a future-ready generation of healthcare professionals equipped to lead and innovate. Rooted in a culture of collaboration, FCMS strengthens SDG-focused efforts through strategic partnerships with national institutions, healthcare organizations, and academic entities, enabling the exchange of expertise, the development of joint initiatives, and the expansion of research opportunities. Together, these efforts reflect FCMS's unwavering dedication to shaping a healthier society and contributing meaningfully to national and global sustainable development targets.

3.3.1 Collaborations and health services

At Fakeeh College for Medical Sciences (FCMS), we are committed to elevating healthcare education through strong, strategic collaborations with leading institutions across the Kingdom and around the world. These partnerships enhance academic quality, strengthen clinical training, and contribute to a healthier, more resilient global community—supporting national priorities and the Sustainable Development Goals.

Local Collaborations

FCMS maintains close ties with distinguished healthcare institutions, universities, and organizations within the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. Through these partnerships, we:

- Provide high-quality clinical training opportunities for students at Dr. Soliman Fakeeh Hospital and its affiliated medical network.
- Collaborate with government and private entities to support national public health initiatives and community outreach programs.
- Engage in joint research projects focused on addressing healthcare challenges and improving patient outcomes in the region.
- Foster continuous professional development for healthcare providers through workshops, seminars, and specialized training programs.

Our local collaborations ensure our students gain real-world experience that aligns with Saudi Vision 2030 and its commitment to building a robust healthcare workforce.

National Collaborations

Beyond local engagements, FCMS maintains strong connections with key national institutions across Saudi Arabia to expand academic, clinical, and research opportunities.

Through these national partnerships, FCMS aims to:

- Strengthen academic cooperation with universities and higher education institutions across the Kingdom.
- Participate in nationwide research initiatives that advance medical science and address priority health challenges.
- Collaborate with national healthcare networks to enhance clinical training pathways and medical internship placements.
- Align programs and training opportunities with national accreditation bodies and professional councils to ensure the highest educational standards.
- Contribute to national conferences, symposiums, and health development projects that support the country's healthcare transformation agenda.

These national collaborations reinforce FCMS's role as an active partner in advancing Saudi Arabia's healthcare education ecosystem.

Global Health Services and Initiatives

As part of our mission to improve health outcomes locally and globally, FCMS actively participates in global health initiatives that:

- Support research contributing to worldwide medical advancements.
- Address emerging health challenges through evidence-based interventions.
- Encourage participation in global conferences, scientific exchanges, and collaborative healthcare projects.
- Strengthen the role of Saudi healthcare professionals in the international medical community.

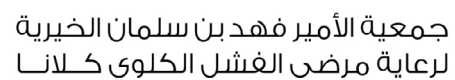

FCMS is dedicated to shaping future leaders in healthcare who are equipped to serve communities on a global scale.

Our Commitment

Through every collaboration—local, international, and global—Fakeeh College for Medical Sciences reaffirms its commitment to:

- Driving innovation in medical education
- Enhancing patient care standards
- Supporting scientific research
- Preparing graduates to thrive in a rapidly evolving healthcare landscape

Our partnerships reflect our belief that meaningful collaboration is essential for building a healthier future for all.
