

Welcome to Aclymate's March 2025 Newsletter! This month's climate news roundup brings you hopeful stories and essential updates. We've launched our new platform myAclymate for individuals seeking to make a difference, CEO Mike Smith was a panelist at the 1871 Tech For Good Connect Event Series, and we featured Director of Marketing Sara Miranda's climate action!

CLIMATE NEWS ROUNDUP

Hopeful Climate News

- Amazon Now Sells Carbon Credits
- Europe is Designing Streets to Be More Car-Free
- Solar Power Surges Ahead Despite Political Opposition

Climate Updates

- Trump's FBI Moves to Criminally Charge Major Climate Groups
- EPA Launches Biggest Deregulatory Action in US History
- Trump's Canadian Tariffs Includes Lumbering of US Forests
- Change in Office is Prompting Companies to Begin "Greenhushing"
- US Coast Guard Academy Censors Climate Change From its Curriculum

Get Started Today!

Our solution was made for businesses without a sustainability expert on their team. Let us help your business reach its climate goals today! Get Started Now. myAclymate was made especially for individuals who want to make a difference by measuring, offsetting and reducing their emissions to take a big step toward helping the environment. Take a free myAclymate quiz, select your offsets, and reduce your emissions!

Launching the myAclymate platform!

Check It Out

Climate Tech: Measuring Impact & Investment Horizons with 1871!

Mike Smith, CEO of Aclymate, was a panelist at 1871's Tech For Good Connect Event Series on March 18th! The panel explored investment trends, standardization of impact metrics, scaling challenges, and emerging opportunities in the climate tech sector.

Check It Out

Our Team's Climate Actions: Sara

Sara Miranda, Director of Marketing at Aclymate, chooses to eat plant-based meals to lower her personal carbon footprint! She says that cooking with "a grain, a green, and a bean" can lead to a nutritious, cheap, and environmentally-conscious meal

Learn More

Has it been a while since you've logged into Aclymate?

Did you just log in yesterday but you miss us?

We're adding new features all the time, so it might be worth another look around.

LOG IN

Click here to unsubscribe | Sent to: kaylee@aclymate.com

Aclymate, 1888 Sherman St. Ste 220, Denver, CO 80203, United States