North Shore Pediatric Therapy

Our Approach to ABA

We recommend the therapy hours your child actually needs, not a default 40 hours/week. We look at how much support your child needs day to day, what matters most to your family, like smoother mornings or easier mealtimes, and what else fills your child's week, like school, speech, or OT.

To your child, ABA just feels like playing. They're climbing, splashing, pretending, and laughing with people they love being around, with toys and equipment picked for what they enjoy. You'll see the new skills showing up along the way.

You know your child best, and we want you to feel just as sure of what to do next. In weekly family treatment guidance, your child's BCBA shows you what's working and why, so you can bring it into your everyday moments together.

Every plan looks ahead to the day your child graduates, doing more of daily life their own way, from mealtimes to the first day of school.
