Understand student well-being & needs in real-time

Students complete a consistent check-in that gives community school managers insights to real-time emotional well-being data. Identify themes and students to provide deeper support.

Proven practice: accelerated reduction in chronic absenteeism

For Cohorts 1 & 2 of CCSPP, schools that used Sown To Grow saw greater reductions in chronic absenteeism than schools that did not use Sown To Grow's check-in, reflection, & response practice to support student well-being & belonging.

"The grant became an opportunity for us to really expand our work & hire new positions to support our students. And we realized that we needed a tool that could allow us to check in with students and gather the data to figure out how kids were doing very very quickly. When I learned about Sown To Grow it was just a nice fit to what we had already been doing. It was an absolute game changer for us."
