

CALL FOR PAPERS FEBRUARY 2027

The Canyon Journal of Undergraduate Research (CJUR) is dedicated to the publication of exemplary faculty-mentored and peer-reviewed research produced by undergraduate students at Grand Canyon University. The CJUR is multidisciplinary with original, contemporary research in alignment with the Boyer Model of Scholarship. The editorial staff are especially interested in diverse manuscripts that document examples of collaborative community engagement, discovery research (empirical or literature review), reflective practice, or reflection on interdisciplinary problems.

CANYON JOURNAL OF UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH

- Educate students on conducting quality research, the institutional review board process, scholarly writing, and the publication process.
- Encourage students to explore academic areas of interest and to empower them to contribute to the existing body of scholarly knowledge.
- Further cultivate and foster the mentorship relationship between faculty and students as they engage in research and the production of scholarly work.
- Offer the GCU community an opportunity to engage our scholars in discussions surrounding their scholarly work.
- Provide scholars with a platform to publish high quality manuscripts which may be foundational to their future educational and career aspirations.
- CJUR encourages learners from all undergraduate disciplines such as arts and media, business, education, health care, humanities, social sciences, STEM, and theology, and alike to submit for consideration.

CJUR Info &
Current Issue

For questions related to this issue of the CJUR, please contact
Katalina.InzunzaHerr@gcu.edu or Jenny.Kuban@gcu.edu.

Manuscript Submissions Due
February 20th, 2027

The journal only accepts manuscripts authored by undergraduate students enrolled at GCU.
Manuscripts will be accepted year-round on a rolling submission basis and can be submitted before and after Feb. 20.