

The Best Ways to See Fall Colors

Whether you're in the area for a romantic autumnal getaway or fall family road trip, vibrant fall colors are the perfect backdrop for your colonial adventure.

According to landscape manager Jon Lak, the end of October and beginning of November are typically the peak foliage-admiring weeks, though we're already seeing warm colors peak from the trees and some fall to the ground for collecting. Maples, sweet gums, crape myrtles, and ginkgos provide brilliant fall foliage in the Historic Area.

Here are the best ways to take in the fabulous foliage in Colonial Williamsburg, and if you're asking us ... in all of Virginia!

Get away this fall and savor the radiance of autumn in the colonial capital. Our expansive arboretum, bursting with striking fall colors, is the perfect backdrop for celebrating craftsmanship with our world-renowned tradespeople, taking a romantic carriage ride, or exploring 301 acres of living history with your family. Plus, visit the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg to discover more on display than ever before.

Enjoy guided tours of historic sites with costumed interpreters, multiple staged programs per day, access to visit and speak with tradespeople, and admission to our two world-class art museums, all included in your ticket. Digital ticket redemption is available and encouraged for a 100% touchless ticketing experience.

The Historic Area is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily | Download a map & program guide here.

The Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg are open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.
