BARISTA LATTE ART

The art of coffee in the heart of Kassel

Barista is the term for coffee artists who create delicate pictures and motives on your coffee specialities with frothed milk. But it's not only the drinks' looks that is focused on by the barista, it's the taste of them first and foremost. The art of designing and shaping the milk foam in this way is called latte art and requires skill and practice. We have specialized our staff in this craft and gladly demonstrate our skills.

We hope the pictures and motives on our drinks bring you little moments of joy and that we can welcome you in our cafe again soon.

HERKULES

UNESCO world heritage site

The Herkules is regarded as Kassel's landmark. On your way to Kassel, you can already see it tower above the city from afar. It is located at the top of the Bergpark Wilhelmshöhe (Wilhelmshöhe Mountainpark) and both were acclaimed as UNESCO World Heritage Sites in 2013.

The statue is about eight meters tall and when it was finished in November 1717, it completed the construction of the colossal baroque castle (Octagon) underneath.

Today, the name “Herkules” refers not only to the statue, but rather to the whole construction, which is also the starting point of the Bergpark’s famous Wasserspiele (Water Features).

FRIDERICIANUM

One of Europe's first public museums

Over a construction period of ten years, the Fridericianum has been completed at Friedrichsplatz in 1779. Structurally connected to a part of the city’s fortifications from the Middle Ages, namely the Zwehrenturm, it served as one of Europe’s first public museums right from the start. The Fridericianum was severely damaged during World War II but later restored in the same shape and form as before.

To this day it is used for changing art exhibitions and is the centre of every documenta – the world renowned exhibition of contemporary art in Kassel.

TREPPENSTRASSE

Germany's first and oldest area for pedestrians only

You are on Treppenstraße (Stair Street), an area created as a precious project in the post war period. Treppenstraße is 275 meters long and overcomes a height difference up to 15 meters with 104 steps. On November 9th 1953 it was opened as Germany's first zone exclusively for pedestrians and it connects Kassel's Central Station with Friedrichsplatz in the city center. The houses flanking Treppenstraße were also created in the beginning of the 1950s and are listed for historic preservation and monument protection. Treppenstraße has a special charme that has even been used as a film set, for example in the popular "Tatort" crime series or in the movie "The Last Pedestrian" from 1960 with Heinz Erhardt.

We are proud of being a part of this history and intend to continue filling it with life in the future.
