

Learning From The Expertise Of Communities: A Participatory Engagement Study Around The Concept Of Participant Engagement In Research

Study Details

This study aims to better understand how Black communities in Canada can be more meaningfully engaged in chronic pain research

Who Can Participate

You may be eligible if you:

- Identify as Black
- Are over the age of 18
- Have lived experience with chronic pain
- Live in Canada
- Speak fluent English

What You Will Do

If you choose to participate, you will take part in a one-time online interview or focus group discussion (90 minutes)

Why Participate?

- Drive structural changes in chronic pain research
- Ensure community voices are heard and valued
- Contribute to more inclusive community-informed research
- Receive compensation for your time

Principal Investigator:

Fiona Webster, PhD
Professor, School of Nursing
Western University

Contact Us!

If you are interested or have questions about this study, please contact Dennis Osei-Nimo Annor at doseinim@uwo.ca