

Looking to organise an unforgettable society day?

Come to Goswick Links

And discover golf the way it was meant to be played on true links land in all its glory

Where Heritage, Nature and Hospitality Meet

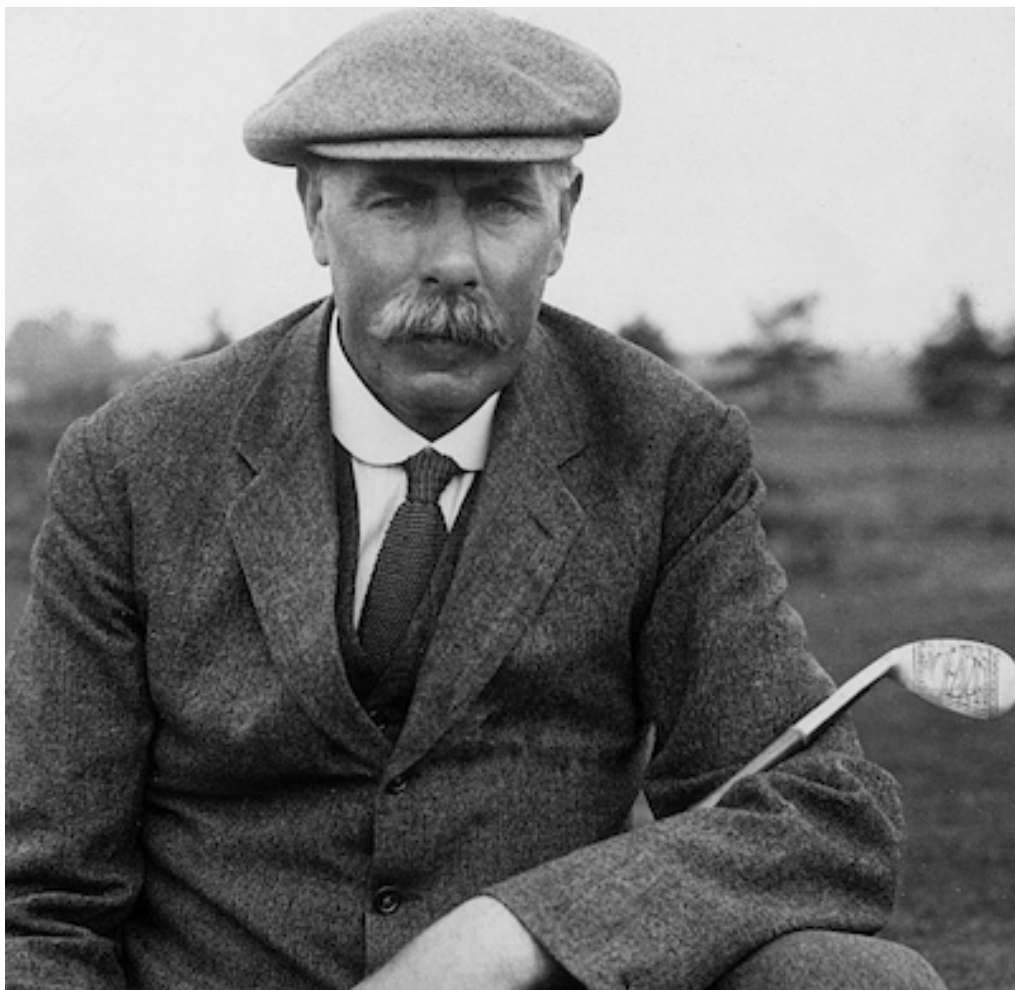

A memorable society day starts with the golf. But it is the whole experience — the setting, the welcome and the way the day comes together — that your group will remember.

Since its founding in 1890, Goswick Links has held true to the principle that its course and people are shaped by the land, not imposed on it. The dunes, the wind and the native grasses are not obstacles to be tamed. They are part of the experience.

For societies and larger groups, that means the chance to experience a genuine links course on the Northumberland coast, followed by the same warm, unpretentious welcome that has long defined the club.

We take the game seriously without taking ourselves too seriously. And we will work with you to help make your day at Goswick one your group will talk about after the final putt drops.

Sublime by Design

Our James Braid masterpiece sits approximately halfway between Edinburgh and Newcastle. It may be a little off the beaten path, but that is very much part of the appeal. Set on the Northumberland coast, Goswick offers the space, calm and character that only a true seaside links can provide.

Goswick is one of a select few courses to be covered throughout in fine fescue grass. Shots played along our fairways respond with the lively bounce expected of links golf, while putts on our greens roll fast and true. Set amid fast-draining sand dunes, those characteristics hold true for much of the year.

It is a course worth travelling for and asks questions of every golfer without losing sight of enjoyment — exactly what a society day should be about.

Whether Goswick is the centrepiece of your annual society outing or one stop on a wider golf trip, the combination of authentic links golf, coastal scenery and championship pedigree makes the journey worthwhile.

Our Evolving Links

A links course is a living, breathing thing — constantly shaped by nature and, at times by measured intentional change. That has certainly been true of Goswick over more than 135 years.

The course was transformed in the 1930s through the vision of five-time Open champion James Braid. Since then, the layout has continued to evolve while remaining true to the playing characteristics that make links golf so distinctive.

That commitment helped Goswick earn selection by The R&A as a venue for Regional Qualifying for The Open Championship multiple times between 2008 and 2024.

More recently, a programme of course improvements guided by renowned course architect Tom Mackenzie has introduced a new par-3 7th — our first completely new hole in some 60 years — alongside changes to the 8th tees that open up dramatic views towards Holy Island and Bamburgh Castle.

You will also encounter a significantly rerouted 1st hole, an upgraded 18th tee and an enhanced short-game area, including a practice putting green four times the size of its predecessor.

The result is a links that continues to move forward without losing the honest, natural character that has always defined Goswick.

Your Society Day at Goswick

Every group is different. Some organisers want a straightforward day of excellent golf; others want to add catering, prizes or extra touches around the round. Our starting point is simple: give you clear options, then help shape the day around your group.

Our standard packages provide an easy starting point. If your group has different requirements, speak to our Bookings Team and we will be happy to discuss a more tailored option.

Designed around groups

Whether you are arranging an annual society fixture, a golf day for a larger group or a special occasion with friends, we will help you understand the options available and make the booking process as straightforward as possible.

Everything in Place for Your Group

The course may be the reason you come to Goswick. But the details around the round matter too. We have the facilities and support to help your group make the most of the day.

Practice before you play

Allow time for a proper warm-up on our spacious practice ground with grass tees, short-game facilities and an enclosed swing studio equipped with TrackMan technology.

Trolleys, buggies and caddies

Goswick is best experienced on foot. Push and electric trolleys are available to hire, while electric-powered buggies are available for golfers who need more assistance. Caddies can also be arranged in advance, subject to availability.

Clubhouse and catering

A full food and beverage service is available for groups, allowing you to add refreshments before and/or after your round to suit the plans for your day.

Pro shop

Our well-stocked pro shop carries golfing essentials, hire clubs and a range of Goswick-crested merchandise from leading golf brands.

A dedicated team

All advance group bookings are managed by our Bookings Team. From your first enquiry onwards, they are there to answer questions, explain the available options and help you organise the details.

A Links with a Reputation

For the organiser, choosing the right venue matters. Goswick combines the character of a traditional links with the pedigree and presentation expected of a memorable golf day.

Championship pedigree

A James Braid design and multiple-time host of Regional Qualifying for The Open Championship.

Authentic links conditions

Fine fescue turf, fast-draining sand dunes and the firm, running golf that makes links golf distinctive.

A remarkable setting

Wide coastal skies and views towards Holy Island and Bamburgh Castle provide a backdrop your group will remember.

Booking Your Society Day

When you are ready to start planning, get in touch with our Bookings Team or complete the society enquiry form on our website.

To help us respond quickly, please include:

- Your preferred date, or a choice of dates
- Your approximate group size
- The society package you are interested in
- Any additional requirements you would like us to consider

We will then come back to you to discuss availability and the next steps. Preferred society dates can book well in advance, so early enquiry is recommended.
