On a summer afternoon with a pitter-patterned sound of raindrops, dark clouds chasing each other. Suddenly the rain stopped and a rare atmosphere came across our eyes. A palette born from colors and light appeared. A magical, often unseen moment that left us amazed.

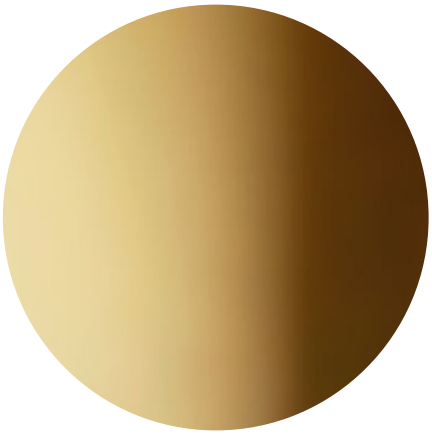

In our mind, imagination moves through a chaotic dimension of ideas following different directions, where we can stop time just for a moment and grasp a fragment of inspiration. This ephemeral balance inspired the Milky Way collection.

The cathedral glass seems almost fluid, emitting a soft diffused light. A lake of light, like the small ripples on water. The overall luminous effect is linear, and soft, making the living spaces expand as a dreamlike vision.

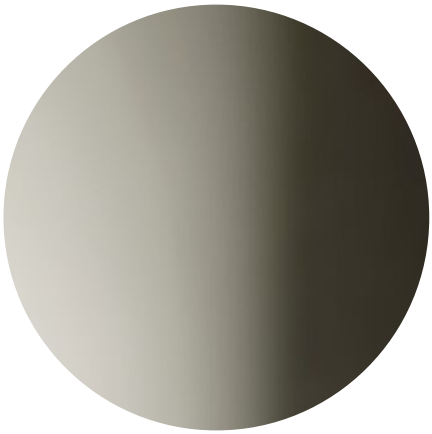

An infinite horizon that catches the eye, enhancing the living space. Bars are the crucial focus of this creation. Perfectly adherent magnets join multiple bars with different lengths, into a unique linear composition, while the external ends of the bar evoke a sense of precious, solid material as if a carved ingot.
