

If you are a scientific scholar, start using CAS SciFinder today

CAS SciFinder is an online solution that contains a comprehensive multidisciplinary collection of scientific information dating back more than a century.

With a single search, get access to all the information in the CAS Content Collection™ and MEDLINE – everything from published journals and patent information to substance details, reactions data, biological sequences, and so much more.

To get access, search your university library website or contact your librarian today!

Learn more at cas.org