

Guiding Someone in Studying a Book of the Bible

Lead an individual or group in a Bible study

As you take your next steps on the discipleship journey, being a guide plays an important role in your spiritual formation. Being a guide involves joining with an individual or leading a group on their discipleship journey.

There are many resources available for leading someone in a Bible study, and we have curated a selection of study options for you to choose from. Guiding someone or a group on their discipleship journey involves prayer, communication, and meeting together on a regular basis.

Prayerfully consider your role as a guide, communicate the vision behind meeting together, and then gather regularly to partake in the study material together. RightNow Media provides ample material for you to use.

Below, we have curated some initial options for you to choose from. Take some time to review the material to decide what content you want to study with your individual or group. Sharing our faith is an irreplaceable part of growing our faith. Thank you for walking alongside others on the discipleship journey.
