Efficiency for BGIS and Suppliers

By streamlining the pre-qualification process, BGIS APAC and the suppliers they engage have become more efficient and realised valuable time spent on compliance. Suppliers no longer waste time answering questions that aren't relevant to their work, while BGIS' resources don't sift through unnecessary information. In total, BGIS APAC reduced the number of questions asked to suppliers by over 100, directly leading to significantly less issues being elevated to support teams.

Strong Relationships Provide a Competitive Advantage

By tailoring the pre-qualification process for suppliers, Avetta and BGIS demonstrates that we understand our stakeholders and their requirements. This, along with proactive management that includes monthly communications, fostering stronger relationships throughout their supply chain, BGIS advised that this has delivered a competitive advantage, allowing them to attract high-quality suppliers who appreciate the personalised approach. With a strong focus on diversity and social supplier engagement, BGIS is also strengthening their relationship with their community, prioritising their work with minority-owned companies and actively engaging with the Indigenous community.

BGIS prioritises the safety of their people, vendors, clients, and the communities in which they operate. Their goal is to drive a culture of zero injuries while also being committed to social procurement that focuses on the betterment of minority suppliers.

Ensuring both improvements to the pre-qualification process and the maintenance of high safety standards are met can be challenging with a company as vast as BGIS. With Avetta, the process suppliers undergo has been streamlined while compliance numbers have risen across the board. BGIS' commitment to extending compliance and risk management to a broader range of suppliers was so inspiring that they won the Operational Excellence Leadership Award from Avetta in 2024. Now that pre-qualification and compliance have been improved, BGIS has the tools required to make continual improvements to their supply chain and strengthen operations as they move into the future.
