

PLAYMAKER OF THE WEEK

MITCHELL ORR BRINGS THE EXPLOSION
AND FLUIDITY THAT PLAYS AT THE NEXT
LEVEL. THE 6'0" 160 POUND WIDEOUT
MAKES DEFENDERS' HEADS TURN LIKE
THE FANS IN THE BLEACHERS

MITCHELL ORR

@MITCHELLORR2027

NCAA COMPARISON: DANNY AMENDOLA

REPORT BY: CHANDLER PULLEN

HANDS

PLAYMAKER RECRUITING

RELEASE NUANCE

BODY CONTROL

ROUTE NUANCE

YAC

STRENGTHS

- YAC threat
- Smooth, fluid athlete
- Scramble friendly

WEAKNESSES

- Slimmer frame
- Not a jump ball guy
- Needs more work as a route runner

Orr is looking to build on a breakout junior season and cement his name as one of the top playmakers in Alabama. After a sophomore season where he only saw one reception, the explosive wideout put on a show in his junior year. Leading the Ramsay Rams in receptions (29), receiving yards (446), yards per catch (15.40), and coming in second for receiving TDs (4). He accounted for more than a quarter of his team's total receiving production in every category, helping them become a top 6 offense in total yards and points scored for 5A Alabama football and reaching a 6-4 record. He's on pace to have another strong season in 2026, currently leading his team in receiving yards through 4 games with 306 yards on 13 catches (23.53 yards per catch) and adding 2 touchdowns as well. Helping the Ramsay Rams continue to climb the ranks as they are 3-1 through 4 games with this shifty playmaker leading the receiving charge. Orr is a deep threat style Z receiver with a lot up upside. He explodes off of the line and glides past the secondary on posts and go routes, showing that he has the speed to take the top off the defense. Orr is not just a straight line athlete though, he shows his fluidity and creativity after the catch and on screen plays, dancing through traffic and making people miss in the open field. At 6'0" 160, Orr is definitely not a dirty work, jump ball X receiver but he combines good ball skills and strong hands to make the most of his size, showing the ability to make tough catches in traffic. The next evolution of his game must come in the form of route running if Orr wants to thrive at the next level. Right now his pure athleticism allows him to get open easily at the high school level, but there isn't a lot of nuance in his routes that gets you excited for his next level projection. This should be very coachable for him though as he has the quickness, fluidity, and creativity after the catch to tell you that it's more than possible as long as he puts his mind to it. This is a prospect that proved he should be on a lot of people's radar last year and he's continuing to make that case for himself through his senior season