Workshop Series

New Beginnings

Find Your New Beginnings

Are you looking for a new pathway in your life? Want to start a career, but you feel you’ve been out of school too long? It’s never too late to apply to college or university. Even if you didn’t finish high school, Oshki-Wenjack can help you find your new beginnings. The Pimache-O-Win Pathways for Indigenous Women is available as an online workshop series or can be delivered in person with a host community/organization. The workshop is designed specifically for women like you who want to go back to school. This culturally sensitive workshop gives you step-by-step information about how to upgrade your education, how to register for college and university programs, how to find funding, and how to find a new career pathway that’s right for you. We’ll help you at every step of the way.

Connect with a powerful circle of elders, leaders, experts, alumni, and mentors to develop lifelong bonds and support circles.
