Pre-Health Sciences Certificate Program

New Beginnings

A Healthy First Step on Your Pathway

Want a career in health care, but need extra math and science help? The Pre-Health Sciences Certificate Program, offered in partnership with Confederation College, helps you upgrade your math, science, and communication skills to prepare you for other college-level health programs. Courses include pre-health math, health care in Canada, biology, chemistry, and communications for health care professionals. After taking this program, students can pursue future health science programs such as nursing, paramedicine, and lab technician. Whether you are graduating high school or coming back to school as a mature student, Oshki-Wenjack supports you as you improve your skills and celebrate your culture in our state-of-the-art learning environment. You will gain a solid foundation to help you in your health career pathway.
