《我读报》 I.Read.News Programme

Speech by Senior Minister of State Low Yen Ling at the SME Centre Conference 2026

9 September 2026

Skylace Language School is an SME that is seeing tangible results from its use of AI. With the support of its Business Advisor from SME Centre@SCCCI, the school adopted generative AI to accelerate content creation and increased marketing efficiency and staff productivity by 50%.

Association of Small and Medium Enterprises (ASME) for organising today's conference. It is good to see so many familiar faces, and many new ones too.

2. This year's theme, "Vision to Action: AI Adoption for SMEs," is apt and timely. For many SMEs, it is no longer about whether AI works. Many of you are already using AI in your day-to-day operations.
3. It is encouraging to hear from SCCCI's recent annual business survey that 77% of our SMEs have adopted AI. 45% have started with practical, off-the-shelf tools. However, the survey also highlighted two challenges: how businesses can apply AI more comprehensively across their operations, and the need for in-house expertise to do so effectively.
4. We are determined to help you harness AI meaningfully. We want our enterprises to become stronger, more productive, and positioned to capture new opportunities. Using AI, SMEs can move faster, do more with less, and punch above their weight.
5. Skylace Language School is an SME that is seeing tangible results from its use of AI. With the support of its Business Advisor from SME Centre@SCCCI, the school adopted generative AI to accelerate content creation and increased marketing efficiency and staff productivity by 50%.
6. To help SMEs harness this AI advantage, our SME Centres have ramped up their outreach to boost the awareness and adoption of AI among small businesses.
