D9. Many people say that if there was a new general election they probably wouldn't vote at all, while others say they definitely would vote. Please say how likely you would be to vote if there was another general election - on a scale of 1-10, where 1 means you definitely would not vote, and 10 means you would be absolutely certain to vote.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Engage Britain: Challenges Facing Britain Survey (Oct. 2018)

ONLINE Fieldwork : 11th-18th October 2018

Absolutes/col percents

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Engage Britain: Challenges Facing Britain Survey (Oct. 2018)

ONLINE Fieldwork : 11th-18th October 2018

Absolutes/col percents

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

How can we make sure that people can get good jobs in every area of the UK?

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.

How can we make sure that people can get good jobs in every area of the UK?

Q3. A challenge facing the country is sometimes said to be divisive when there are very different views on how best to solve it, and those views are strongly held by different sides of the debate. In contrast when most people are broadly agreed on how best to solve a challenge facing the country, the question is thought to be not divisive. Below are questions about challenges facing the UK. From your impressions and what you may have seen or heard, for each please say the extent to which you think each of these questions is divisive.
