We understand that safeguarding, child protection and promoting the welfare of all children is everyone's responsibility and everyone has a role to play in protecting children.

We recognise that our school is part of a wider safeguarding system for children and, where possible, work with other agencies/organisations to promote the welfare of children. We maintain an attitude of 'it could happen here' and will consider the wishes of, and at all times, what is in the best interests of each child. All staff are aware of the importance of early help/early intervention to safeguard the welfare of children.

Phoenix International Primary School recognises the necessity of a Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy. This policy, whilst based on UK practice and procedures, acknowledges the need for sensitivity to cultural norms and an awareness of cultural differences.

4. Types of abuse

- 4.1 Staff will be trained (Educare and staff safeguarding training) in indicators of abuse and should be able to recognise signs of abuse. Abuse can take many forms and can involve directly inflicting harm on a child or failing to protect a child from harm.

The main types of abuse that staff are trained to recognise are:

- Physical abuse
- Sexual abuse
- Emotional abuse
- Domestic Abuse
- Neglect

4.2 Types of abuse (Taken from Working Together to Safeguard Children, 2015)

Updated with each KCSIE 2022 -2025*

Type of abuse	Information
Abuse	A form of maltreatment of a child. Somebody may abuse or neglect a child by inflicting harm, or by failing to act to prevent harm. Children may be abused in a family or in an institutional or community setting by those known to them or, more rarely, by others (e.g. via the internet). They may be abused by an adult or adults, or another child or children.
Physical abuse	A form of abuse which may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child.
Emotional abuse	The persistent emotional maltreatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to a child that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate. It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. These may include interactions that are beyond a child's developmental capability, as well as overprotection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child from participating in normal social interaction. It may involve seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another. It may involve serious bullying (including cyberbullying), causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, though it may occur alone.
Sexual abuse	Involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example, rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing and touching outside of clothing. They may also include non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse. Sexual abuse can take place online, and technology can be used to facilitate offline abuse. Sexual abuse is not solely perpetrated by adult males. Females can also be abusers as can other children. The sexual abuse of children by other children is a specific safeguarding issue (also known as child-on-child abuse) in education.

Child Criminal Exploitation (CCE) and Child sexual exploitation (CSE)	Child Sexual Exploitation (CSE) is a form of child sexual abuse. It occurs where an individual or group takes advantage of an imbalance of power to coerce, manipulate or deceive a child or young person under the age of 18 into sexual activity (a) in exchange for something the victim needs or wants, and/or (b) for the financial advantage or increased status of the perpetrator or facilitator. The victim may have been sexually exploited even if the sexual activity appears consensual. Child sexual exploitation does not always involve physical contact; it can also occur through the use of technology. Child Sexual Exploitation (CSE) can be a one-off occurrence or a series of incidents over time and range from opportunistic to complex organised abuse. It can involve force and/or enticement-based methods of compliance and may, or may not, be accompanied by violence or threats of violence. Some additional specific indicators that may be present in CSE are children who: have older boyfriends or girlfriends; suffer from sexually transmitted infections, display sexual behaviours beyond expected sexual development or become pregnant. Child criminal exploitation (CCE) and child sexual exploitation (CSE) We know that different forms of harm often overlap, and that perpetrators may subject children and young people to multiple forms of abuse, such as criminal exploitation (including county lines) and sexual exploitation. In some cases, the exploitation or abuse will be in exchange for something the victim needs or wants (for example, money, gifts or affection), and/or will be to the financial benefit or other advantage, such as increased status, of the perpetrator or facilitator. Children can be exploited by adult males or females, as individuals or groups. They may also be exploited by other children, who themselves may be experiencing exploitation – where this is the case, it is important that the child perpetrator is also recognised as a victim. Whilst the age of the child may be a contributing factor for an imbalance of power, there are a range of other factors that could make a child more vulnerable to exploitation, including, sexual identity, cognitive ability, learning difficulties, communication ability, physical strength, status, and access to economic or other resources. Some of the following can be indicators of both child criminal and sexual exploitation where children: appear with unexplained gifts, money or new possessions; associate with other children involved in exploitation; suffer from changes in emotional well-being; misuse alcohol and other drugs; go missing for periods of time or regularly come home late, and regularly miss school or education or do not take part in education.

Type of abuse	Information
Domestic Abuse	*Domestic abuse can encompass a wide range of behaviours and may be a single incident or a pattern of incidents. That abuse can be, but is not limited to, psychological, physical, sexual, financial or emotional. Children can be victims of domestic abuse. They may see, hear, or experience the effects of abuse at home and/or suffer domestic abuse in their own intimate relationships (teenage relationship abuse). All of which can have a detrimental and long-term impact on their health, well-being, development, and ability to learn. Harm can include ill treatment that is not physical as well as the impact of witnessing ill treatment of others. This can be particularly relevant, for example, in relation to the impact on children of all forms of domestic abuse. Children may be abused in a family or in an institutional or community setting by those known to them or, more rarely, by others. Young people can also experience domestic abuse within their own intimate relationships. This form of child-on-child abuse is sometimes referred to as 'teenage relationship abuse'.
Neglect	The persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy, for example, as a result of maternal substance abuse. Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or carer failing to: provide adequate food, clothing and shelter (including exclusion from home or abandonment); protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger; ensure adequate supervision (including the use of inadequate care-givers); or ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.

(See Appendix A for Indicators of abuse)

4.3 Child on Child Abuse

Child on child abuse is where children abuse other children and can take many forms. This can include (but is not limited to) bullying (including cyberbullying); sexual violence and sexual harassment; physical abuse such as hitting, kicking, shaking, biting, hair pulling, or otherwise causing physical harm.

Child-on-child abuse is most likely to include, but may not be limited to:

- Bullying (including cyberbullying, prejudice-based, sexualized or discriminatory bullying).
- Abuse in intimate personal relationships between children (sometimes known as 'teenage relationship abuse') including coercion, threats, humiliation or body rating.
- Physical abuse which can include hitting, kicking, shaking, biting, hair pulling, or otherwise causing physical harm and unwanted touching.
- Sexual violence, such as rape, assault by penetration and sexual assault such as forcing someone to engage in sexual activity.
- Sexual harassment, such as sexual comments, remarks, jokes, misogyny, pornography, and online sexual harassment.
- Consensual and non-consensual sharing of self-generated intimate images and /or videos including those generated by AI eg "Deepfakes".
- Upskirting (now recognised as a criminal offence in the UK).
- Misogyny in any form is recognised as a form of sexual behaviour as well as sexual violence and harassment.

4.3.1 Phoenix International Primary School recognises that safeguarding issues can manifest as child-on-child abuse and will ensure staff understand what is meant by child-on-child abuse and include this in the annual safeguarding training.

4.3.2 Phoenix International Primary School will work to prevent child-on-child abuse by following the Whole School Behaviour policy & Anti-bullying policy, focusing on positive relationships in our PSHE/RHE curriculum, monitoring and being vigilant.

4.3.3 If an allegation of child-on-child abuse is made, Phoenix International Primary School will investigate this in accordance with the Whole School Behaviour Policy and Anti-Bullying Policy and keep a record of the incident in the child's personal file as well as the Child Welfare/child protection file.

4.3.4 If an allegation of child-on-child abuse is made, victims and alleged perpetrators will be supported by teachers, the DSL team /or a child welfare counsellor, to be decided on a case-by-case basis.

4.3.5 Phoenix International Primary School will never pass off child-on-child abuse as 'banter' or 'part of growing up'.

5. Responding to signs of abuse

REPORTING

- 5.1 If a member of staff, parent or member of the community is concerned about a child's welfare, they should report it to the designated safeguarding lead as soon as possible.
- 5.2 All staff will be alert to indicators of abuse and will report any of the following to the Designated Safeguarding Lead immediately.

- Any concern or suspicion that a child has sustained an injury outside what is reasonably attributable to normal play.
- Any concerning behaviours exhibited by children that may indicate that they have been harmed or are at risk of harm, including unusual changes in mood or behaviour, concerning use of language and/or concerning drawings or stories.
- Any significant changes in attendance or punctuality.
- Any significant changes in a child's presentation.
- Any concerns relating to people who may pose a risk of harm to a child.
- Any disclosures of abuse that children have made.

DISCLOSURES

- 5.3 There will be occasions where a child discloses abuse directly to a member of staff. If this happens, the member of staff will:

 - Only ask for clarification if something is unclear and will not ask 'leading' questions.
 - Report disclosure to the designated safeguarding lead as soon as possible, certainly by the end of the day.
 - Only discuss the issue with colleagues who need to know about it.

- 6.3 If a child moves school, relevant safeguarding information will be, wherever possible, shared with the relevant authority in the new school.
- 6.4 Class teachers will keep a record of any incidents or occurrences they have noticed regarding a child's behaviour, circumstances, home situation etc which are not yet child welfare concerns but are worth noting. These will be shared with the DSL on a termly basis as they help to determine patterns.
