

VR Standards of Practice – Audit Tool

The VR Standards (2019) requires members to:

"Refer to these standards to conduct a self-audit at yearly intervals or less."

This document is designed to help you undertake such an evaluation using the professional standards. You may wish to conduct this as a self-evaluation, as part of an appraisal and development process with an employer or a provider or as part of peer review.

Using the document

- Column 1, Standard, is taken directly from the VRA professional standards.
- Column 2, Examples of evidence, gives examples of the kinds of documents and items that can provide evidence that you meet the standard. It is not exhaustive. A key is at the end of the document.
- Column 3, Evidence, is for you to list your own evidence. Even if you are not presenting your evaluation to anyone else, it is a good discipline to identify how you could demonstrate that you meet the standards in your work. You can attach evidence or create a folder of evidence that you can create hyperlinks to.
- In Column 4 make an assessment of whether you meet the standard fully (Y), partially (P), or not at all (N). There may also be standards that aren't relevant to the work you do hence the X (not applicable) column.
- Column 5 is for you to summarise the actions you will take where you have ticked 'N' or 'P' (or X, if you want to develop into these areas). You may also identify that you could improve your practice further in some of the areas where you have ticked 'Y'. Actions can be as straightforward as a simple change of behaviour or process, or they could involve further learning, development and experience.

Examples of evidence

These are items and sources that you may be able to use for evidence that you meet the standards, this is not an exhaustive list. If you are using these to present for assessment or peer review, (a) be selective – pick out and explain examples that provide good evidence of your practice, and (b) cross-reference your evidence to the relevant standards. Some items will need to be anonymised before they are shown to anyone without authority to see the relevant details.
