GET TO KNOW
MANAGEMENT &
BUSINESS STUDIES

Introduction

Management and Business Studies is a broad-based discipline that studies the functions of the business world and management theories of organisations. They provide a solid foundation for students who want to launch careers in business and management. The study areas can be cross-cultural and cross-geographical so that students are provided with a more comprehensive knowledge in business and management.

Course Organisation

Typically, Management and Business Studies degrees last 3 years. Students can opt for an additional year of placement or study abroad, which takes place in the third year of study.

Modules are taught through lectures, small group tutorials and seminars. Assessment will depend on the modules, with compulsory subjects typically being assessed in examinations, supplemented by written essay and elective modules by combination of those and other exercises.

Course Content

There may be compulsory subjects that cover the essential understanding of Management and Business Studies. Students are also expected to study quantitative methods and are usually given flexibility to take electives that interest them from a long list.

- First Year

Students will study essential foundations in Accounting, Economics, Business Law, Management, and Statistics.

- Second Year

Students will be able to either take further electives that build on the foundation from the first year or take any subjects that interest them. Subjects will normally include Financial Accounting, Corporate Finance, Human Resources Management, Operation, Information Technology for Business, and more.

- Third Year

Students will study advanced level subjects in all the main fields of business and management. Students can select subjects according to their interests. These usually include Strategy, Decision Science, Business Analysis, Global Business, and more.

How it works

Applications for undergraduate degrees for most of the UK universities go via UCAS. You will need to register and complete a UCAS form, with payment, by the set deadline. Colleges will usually set internal deadlines for their students. With the exception of Oxford and Cambridge, the UCAS deadline for competitive universities is January 14, 2026.

The final deadline to submit a UCAS application is 30 June.

Entry Requirements

Universities are happy to accept 3 A Levels subjects or a combination of 3 HL and 3 SL IB subjects from Arts, Humanities, Maths and Sciences. Many competitive universities will require Maths as one of the 3 A Levels subjects, or HL Maths as one of the 6 HL and SL IB subjects. General Studies and Critical Thinking are not accepted.

Selectors' Attitude

Your UCAS application is always considered as a whole; taking into account your qualifications, experience, personal statement and reference.

Some universities will look for clear mathematical aptitude and capability in the application of students.

Personal Statement

Students are expected to demonstrate interest in the world of business and management. Aptitude for mathematics is essential, particularly to some competitive universities.

UCAS has implemented a system called the UCAS Similarity Detection Service to verify the authenticity of Personal Statements. If significant amounts of similarities are detected and the Verification staff decides to flag a personal statement, the university and the applicant will be notified via email by UCAS.

03

LOOKING AHEAD

A day in the life of a Management & Business Studies student

Students will study theories via lectures. Further reading is to follow before preparing for discussion on hypothetical business and management problems in tutorials. The quantitative subjects are mainly for learning to solve sums. The mode of learning is quite similar for every subject. However, students would also spend time writing essays and dissertation to be submitted by the end of the semesters in addition to preparing for exams.

Career Path

Graduates of Management and Business Studies degrees enjoy a wide variety of career opportunities. They can go to become business and management analysts, entrepreneurs, researchers, education advisors and more. To be senior managers, graduates usually will continue to further their studies to master's level in order to gain more in-depth business and management knowledge after some years of working experience. This will help them to handle more complex business and management problems.

Examples of graduates' job roles include: Business Analyst, Market Researcher, Entrepreneur, Management Trainee, Sales Associate, HR Coordinator, and more.
