REAL ESTATE FOR THE DESIGN-CONSCIOUS

Anatole House is a leading boutique brokerage based in the Catskills, Hudson Valley and Delaware River Valley regions of Upstate New York.

Featured in The New York Times and Curbed NY, we're the discerning choice for those seeking artful living spaces in Upstate New York. Our reputation has been built on the curation and presentation of undeniably beautiful second homes and co-primary residences.

We collaborate with an exclusive network of niche market specialists throughout the region. Our clients share a common desire: a thoughtful return to nature, design-forward living spaces, mental clarity, and often, a passion for hospitality.

ABOUT KAYLA MCNAMARA

Kayla moved to New York City in 2007 to attend Pratt Institute, where she majored in painting and art history. After 13 years in the city, she and her husband decided it was time for a change.

They packed up their Greenpoint apartment and set off on a year-long travel sabbatical, journeying across the country and spending time abroad in search of a new place to call home. They visited many incredible places, but one, in particular, captured their hearts.

Since relocating to the Hudson Valley in late 2019, they haven't looked back. They've put down deep roots — starting a family, investing in a long-term rental property, and opening a business in the heart of Kingston.

Her background in art allows her to see the potential in each home that she shows, and to help her clients envision their upstate dreams as well. She's an avid outdoors enthusiast, and she absolutely loves exploring this area that she calls home.

She's been helping people buy and sell their properties in the area since late 2020. Whether you're a weekender, an investor, or looking to make a full time move, she looks forward to helping you find the perfect property.

When she's not working, Kayla can be found sipping wine at her husband's restaurant, Mirador, in Midtown Kingston, spending time with her young family, or swimming laps with the distance swim club at Lake Minnewaska.

COMMISSION + FEES

SELLER'S AGENT COMPENSATION

Sellers may choose to compensate their agents in a number of ways, including a percentage of the sale or a flat fee. You can also get specific, and identify how to compensate your agent based on different factors, like if there's a buyer's agent involved, if there's a dual agency scenario, or if the buyer is unrepresented.

Your seller's agent will discuss their fee after an initial consult and commensurate with their high level of professional services, expertise, vision and support that they provide to sell what is likely one of the largest investments that you will make in your lifetime.

BUYER'S AGENT COMPENSATION

An offer of compensation to a cooperating buyer's broker is not required; however, you may choose to offer compensation directly to a cooperating broker. And as a seller you may receive requests for compensation from a cooperating buyer's broker as part of the purchase offer or separately.

You may accept, deny or negotiate the amount of compensation being requested by a cooperating buyer's broker. But keep in mind that offers of compensation help make homeownership accessible to buyers, including first-time homebuyers, increase homeownership opportunities for historically underserved groups, and benefit you by expanding the potential buyer pool - i.e. by offering compensation, you are incentivizing buyers to make offers.

LISTING FEES

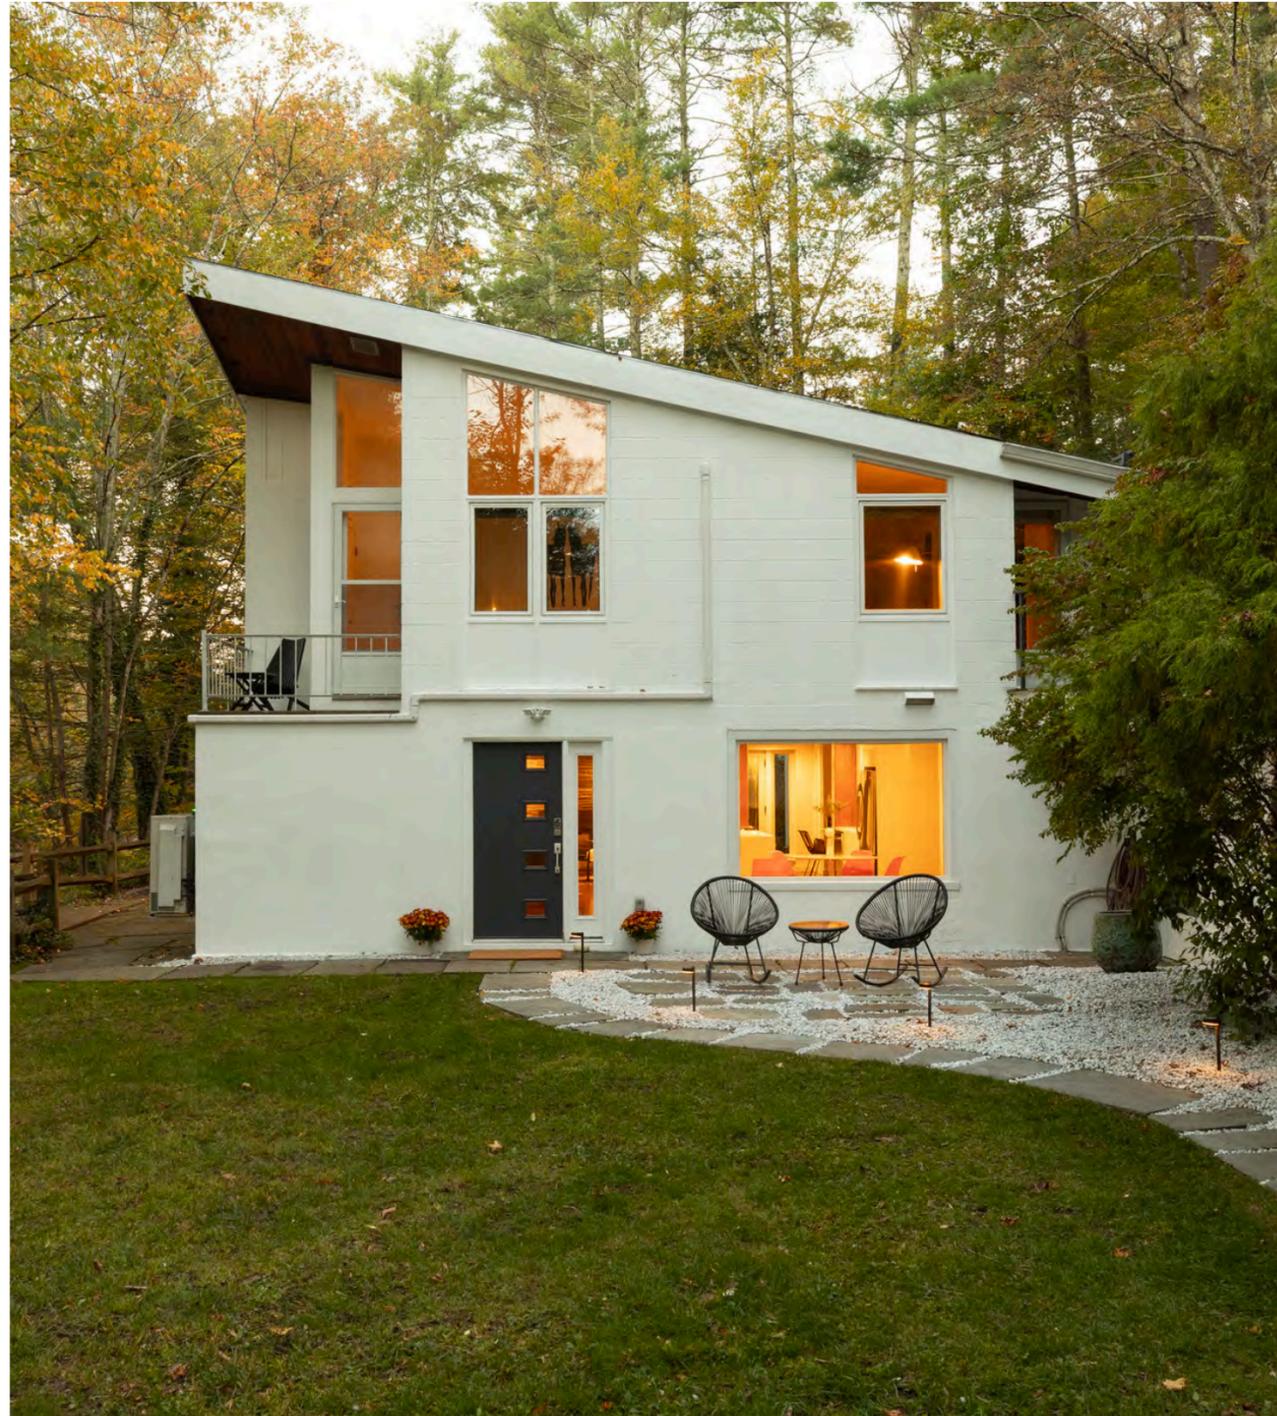

Our team covers all fees associated with the marketing package outlined in this deck, in addition to hosting an open house, when relevant. The costs of property maintenance, property management, including winter and otherwise safe accessibility for showings, utilities and additional staging, as agreed upon, are the responsibility of the seller.

CLOSING COSTS

Closing costs are the responsibility of the seller, and will be itemized by your attorney closer to closing. But we can advise on the types of costs to expect.

Compensation is not set by law or any Realtor® association or MLS.
Compensation to a broker is fully negotiable between the buyer and the broker.

ON THE TOPIC OF SELLING YOUR HOME

Here's what I can bring to the table. Our team has an explicitly design-forward approach to real estate in this region. We work closely with our design team and photographers to provide you with an editorial website and marketing to best showcase your property, and I treat each of my listings as an individual branding client.

I operate specifically in the niche market of clients coming from New York City, buying and selling second homes and co-primary homes. I also have a strong network of similar niche market agents both upstate and in the city.

I'm based in our Kingston office, providing me with convenient and flexible access and availability to accommodate last minute requests. My local knowledge is invaluable, as it is important to sell not just a property but also the area. In addition, I have a strong stack of resources - cleaners, property managers and more.

I'd love to work with you!
