

Postal mail and Zero Friction

With our postal mail communication integration, you can reduce manual tasks, and streamline the delivery of invoices, ensuring that your customers receive timely and accurate information promptly and professionally.

Postal mail

“By integrating postal mail communication into the Zero Friction; manual tasks are reduced, and all customers, receive the information they need promptly and professionally”

Users can set their communication preferences, and the Zero Friction platform handles the entire process. When a document is generated in the Zero Friction billing platform, it is automatically queued for postal delivery based on the user's preferences.

Documents are then automatically sent to enterprise-grade print facilities, where it is printed with high quality to ensure clarity and professionalism.

Once printed, the documents are handed over to the local postal service for delivery. Our integration ensures that delivery is tracked, providing assurance that the documents reach their intended recipients.

Users receive confirmation within the Zero Friction platform if there is an issue with the document delivery. Tracking information is available to monitor the status of the delivery.
