What I already know:

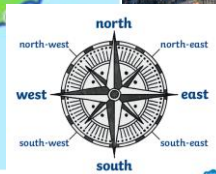

- London is the capital city of England.
- A city is a settlement with different types of buildings, such as houses and shops.
- Different types of transport, like cars, buses and trains.

Enquiry questions:

- Where is London located on a map?
- What are the physical features of London?
- What are the human features of London?
- How do people travel to and around London?
- How are Plymouth and London similar and different?

New knowledge:

- London is in the South-East of England.
- Physical features include the River Thames, parks, hills, seasons and weather.
- Human features of the city include houses, shops, roads, bridges, train stations and airports.
- London is served by a busy transport network, both within the city and from the wider UK.
- The physical and human features of London all serve a purpose (trade, travel, housing, recreation, government).
- London has some key similarities and differences with the city we live in, Plymouth.
