FOUR SUITES

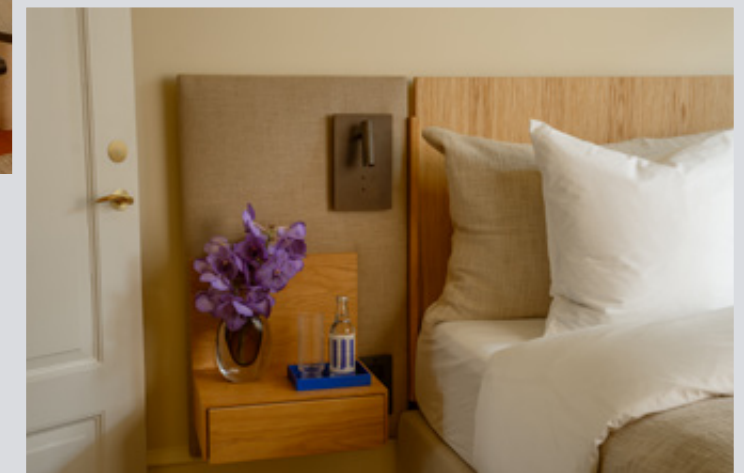

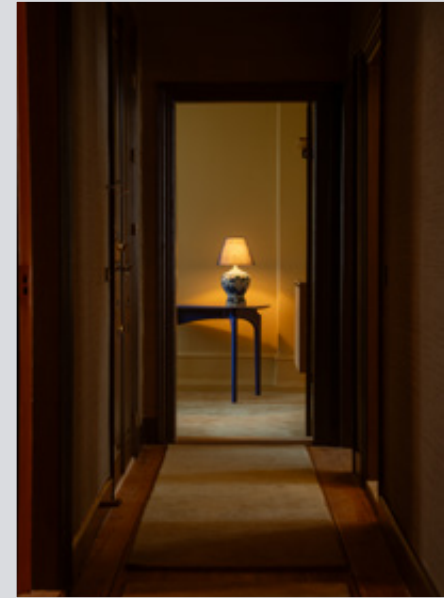

Brønnums Suite

Zieglers Suite

Dehns Suite

Harsdorffs Suite

The entire Four Suites can be booked upon request.

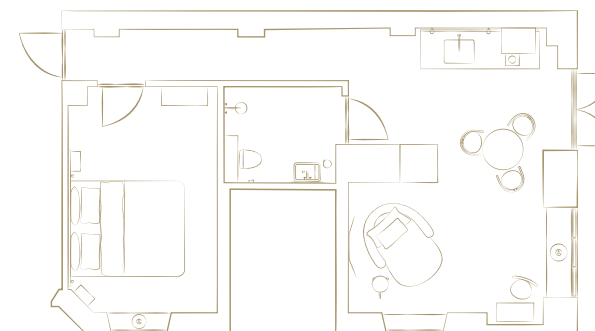

Brønnums Suite

*1 Bedroom for 2 guests
Room size 55 sq. m*

Named after Brønnums Hus (1866), the most ornamented facade in Copenhagen, this suite embraces 19th-century warmth and hygge. Coffee-and-toffee tones, heavy curtains, and rich wooden floors set a cosy mood. Home to H.C. Andersen's friends, the Henriques family, Brønnums Hus was a meeting place for artists and writers.

Echoing this spirit of creative intimacy, the Brønnums Suite offers its own quiet haven. Located on the ground floor and overlooking the historic courtyard, it is a private and calm retreat for one or two guests. With a generous open lounge and kitchen area, it combines refined simplicity with the warmth of a lived-in Copenhagen home.

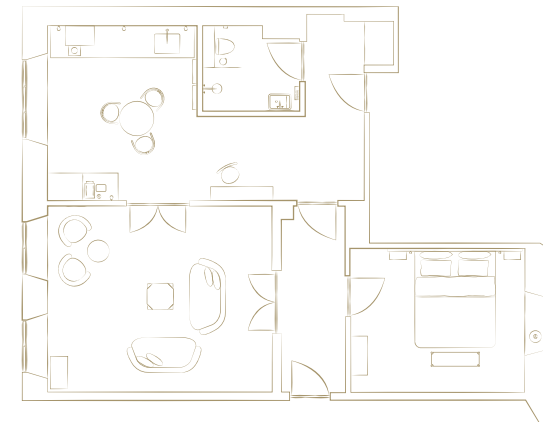

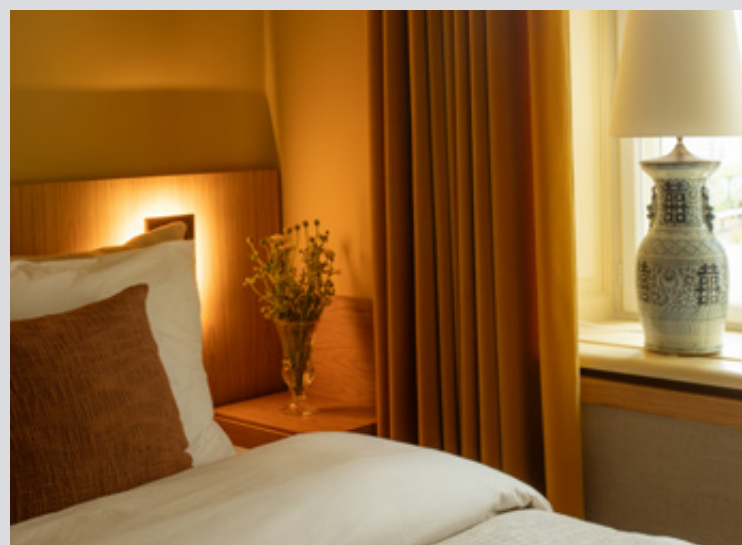

Zieglers Suite

*1 Bedroom for 2 guests
Room size 55 sq. m*

Named after J.H. Ziegler's house (1732) – designed by Dutch master Philip de Lange, this suite celebrates rococo elegance and craftsmanship. Delft ceramic blue, Dutch orange, and graceful asymmetry define its atmosphere, a nod to the decorative scrollwork, rocailles and fine detailing that shaped Copenhagen's architecture in the 1730s.

Carrying this spirit into the present day, the Ziegler Suite blends lightness and charm with contemporary comfort. Located on the ground floor, it offers one bedroom, a separate seating area, and a fully equipped kitchen and dining space. The colour palette mirrors its namesake's soft tones, creating a bright, refined space ideal for a couple or a solo traveller seeking quiet beauty in the heart of Frederiksstad.

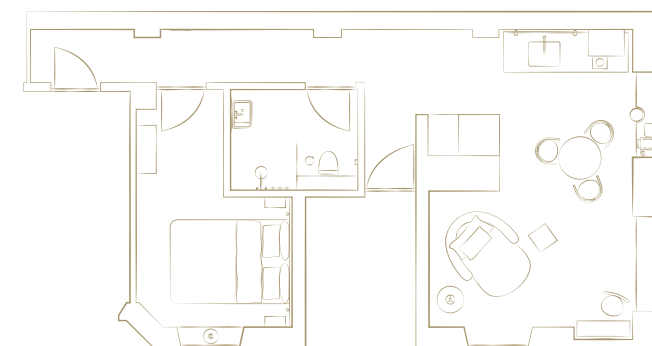

Dehns Suite

*1 Bedroom for 2 guests
Room size 80 sq. m*

Named after Dehns Palæ (1756), a rococo mansion facing the Marble Church, this suite reflects the elegance of architect Nicolai Eigtved's Frederiksstaden plan. With delicate golden hues and light tones that mirror the interiors of its namesake, it captures the grace and refinement of 18th-century Copenhagen. From the windows, one can imagine the grand courtyards and gardens that once surrounded the noble houses of the district.

Echoing this quiet grandeur, the Dehns Suite offers a spacious retreat with timeless appeal. Featuring 1 bedroom, a generous lounge and dining area, and a fully equipped kitchen, it balances historic charm with modern comfort.

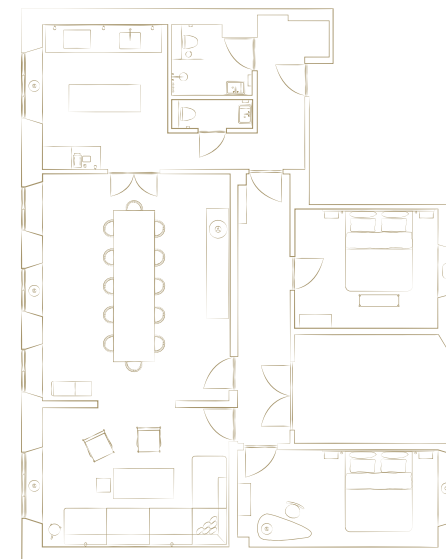

Harsdorffs Suite

*2 Bedroom for 4 guests
Room size 150 sq. m*

Available for meetings and private dining upon request

Named after C.F. Harsdorff's 1778 masterpiece on Kongens Nytorv, this suite embodies the classicism that reshaped Copenhagen. Harsdorff's balanced, elegant vision is reflected in the suite's subtle motifs, mirrored surfaces, and the soft interplay of light across its classic forms.

Honouring the spirit of Copenhagen's great salons, the Harsdorffs Suite offers space to gather, dine, and unwind. With two bedrooms and a spacious living area, it accommodates up to four guests. A long communal table, modern chandeliers, and bespoke lighting create an inviting atmosphere, blending civic grace with contemporary comfort.
