ALL ABOUT TALENT

Talent may be defined as the ability and capability to do something well while implying potential future performance. Talent management puts in place the processes to attract, identify, develop, engage, retain and deploy individuals who are valuable to an organisation.

It includes all the ways that an organisation brings employees on board, keeps them happy and productive, and helps them continue to develop. The development of talent entails the organisational process of positioning employees for career advancement in a way that aligns with the company's mission.

Whichever way you look at it and however you define it, talented people are at the core of a successful organisation. So, it is unsurprising that so many organisations – from governments to public and private sector companies and the not-for-profit sector spend so much time on looking at ways to develop their people.

The University of Manchester - Dubai has been working actively with a wide range of organisations in the region for many years, to develop talent through its Strategic Talent Partnerships.

These include access to our part-time master's programmes and Executive Education short business courses.

It also includes extensive support from the Dubai based team, which offer career services to students and alumni, and a very active regional networking and events programme. In addition to that, the student support team provides dedicated guidance and resources to help students succeed throughout their academic journey.

These combine into a special partnership opportunity that has successfully supported a wide range of partners across the region.

STRATEGIC TALENT PARTNERSHIPS (STPs)

Every organisation faces unique challenges and objectives. A Strategic Talent Partnership with The University of Manchester - Dubai is a non-binding agreement that gives organisations access to expert resources and talent to help future-proof success.

The STP programme provides a framework for collaboration and engagement between organisations and higher education.

These partnerships:

Identify leadership development opportunities and management skill's needs and explore solutions through professional development and education programmes.

Provide access to a talent pool of over 60,000 business professionals.

Create professional networking opportunities across both the University and partner communities.

Provide access to leading academics delivering professional development masterclasses to partners at their premises.

Provide world class study opportunities at preferential rates for eligible partner's staff/members.

OUR STRATEGIC TALENT PARTNERS

As Trane Technologies in MEA, we have been fortunate to have The University of Manchester - Dubai as a valuable partner. We have nominated over five talented employees to participate in the MBA programme, and the feedback has been overwhelmingly positive. The programme is true knowledge that is applied, as it enables all participants to reflect on their knowledge and apply it in the field, improve their strategic thinking, and establish strong relationships with their peers, promoting learning. We recommend their programmes to talented individuals seeking an esteemed degree, practical knowledge, and a committed team that provides ongoing support.
